Events moved with rapidity, and when the sun went down public men in all branches of the servmembers,...President Cleveland sends another financial message to Conice were nervous and worn out from the tension. The reports came of a panic in securities throughout the country and here in Washington affairs moved at the rapid pace of a kaleidoscope. The House Venezuelan Commission Bill was amended in material respects by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations and then, by a sud-den change in septiment in the Senate, was passed unanimously just as it came from the House; then an adjournment resolution from tomorrow over the holidays was passed by the Senate, only to be followed by a message from the President strongly urging prompt action for the reform of our currency system and the maintenance of public credit. At the end of the avenue the President and his Cabinet received prompt advice of the course of events here and on the public exchanges. The Cabinet sat two sessions, something without recedent in recent years. Secretary Herbert, who arrived from New York San Salvador....The Spree hard this afternoon, attended the second meeting for a short time. All the remaining members of the Cabinet were present except Secretaries Lamont and

Smith, who are out of town. The financial situation was the princinal topic of consideration and the result of the meeting was revealed in the age sent to the Senate late in the afternoon, that body being kept in ses-ens to entail immense sacrifices upon sion for its reception by request from those who act upon it. The pressure to the White House. The message was the war scare at Boston, Philadelphia not favorably received in the Senate. That the administration has not oved precipitately in the Venezuelan affair is evidenced by the fact, which has now become known, that Secretary Olney's famous letter defining the Monroe doctrine, was considered for fully two months before being dispatched to glad to buy back at much higher fig-Ambassador Bayard for delivery to Lord Salisbury. Moreover, it is a fact that the President's message, while perhaps hastily reduced to exact form, really was the subject of deep deliberation for about six months, for there is good reason to believe the adverse response of Lord Salisbury to Secretary Olney's note was expected by the President. It is noted that the President's nessage is a distinct advance in our attitude upon the letter of the Secretary or, whereas the latter was confir a declaration of a doctrine, the former proposed action that went far beyond that point. It was this reason, without doubt, that caused the message to be most carefully considered for many months.

The diplomatic corps here appears to have fallen under a misapprehension as to the purpose of the message, which may account for the attitude of some of The Hearne Case.

BOWLING GREEN (Mo.,) Dec. 20.—
The defense in the case of Dr. Hearne, charged with the murder of Amos J. Stillwell, having rested, the State today began taking rebuttal testimony. A number of witnesses were examined, but nothing new or of vital importance was brought out. Judge Rey gave instructions to the jury, at the conclusion of which final arguments were begun. Col. Glies for the State was the first to speak. The case will probably go to the jury tomorrow. the European newspapers which have received inspiration for the editorial articles from the foreign offices, for it is learned that the diplomats in Washington have, in many cases, and certainly in the case of the representatives of the European powers, informed their governments that President Cleveland's action was dictated purely by motives of political expediency, and was no intended to have permanent results. It may be that the unanimity of suppor MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 20.—The second floor of the Palace Clothing Company's store on Nicollette avenue collapsed at noon today. Although Secretary Herhert returned to Washington from New York this afternoon, as yet he has taken no action with regard to the directions to the North Atlantic squadron, so it will not sail tomorrow, as was intended, for the West Indies. The Secretary will communicate his intentions to Admiral Bunce, who comes to Washington for the purpose on Sunday, but the impression prevails that the fleet will not leave American waters immediately, and that the itinerary heretofore arranged will be modified materially before its departure.

Further inquiry into the subject makes it appear that if the commission to be appointed to ascertain the facts respecting the Venezuelan boundary finds it necessary to visit the country and to personally locate the line, the work will consume much more time than is generally believed to be neces-sary. Outside of the voyage to Venezuela, which would consume not less than a month to and fro, the journey through the wild interior of the coun try would be very difficult. With a small force of eight lightly-equipped colonial police, the journey to the Uruan outpost, where the collision occurred, and which marks one end of the line claimed by Great Britain, could not be made in less than twenty-three days so that if the commission is to make a proper examination of the country, the task, including the sea voyage, will probably occupy about six months. Many names have been suggested for membership on the commission, but today's action of the Senate in passing the House bill unamended, apparently eliminates several of these names, including that of Justice Har an of the United States Supreme Court One name favorably mentioned is that of Mr. Partridge of Vermont, formerly United States Minister to Venezuela.

SORDID CONSIDERATIONS.

John Bull Proposes to Retaliate Rothschild Wants Peace. (BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES

LONDON, Dec. 20.—(Special Dis patch.) There is no longer any doubt that England's reply to President Cieveland's message is to be a blow against America's financial interests. It may not be a deliberate concerted attack, but it is certain to be simultaneous action by a sufficient number of English investors to cause a serious effect for the time being upon the American markets. The effect upon stocks is already manifest and needs no explanation. The effect upon trade, nercial credits and the general monetary situation will come a little later and the business men of the United States are no doubt already preparing to meet it.

Things are being done by responsible and reputable men of prominence in the financial world which cannot by any possibility be credited to any form ment and nothing else must account for the action of Borthwick and one one or two large brokerage houses which refused today to conduct any further dealings in American securities The retallatory spirit, too, has much do with the reported inention Rothschild to call in $6,000,000 of Amer ican credits due January 1. The con-firmation or denial of this report was refused at Rothschild's office today. Nowhere in England is President Cleveland's action so deeply resented and so strongly condemned as in the London financial world. This senti-ment was inevitable and has nothing to do with the merits of the controversy. It would be just the same if the United States proposed to resist even unto war, the British attempt to an-nex Alaska. Any cause, no matter how righteous, which threatened the peace of the world, would receive the condemnation of financial London. One great piece of mischief English financiers are doing, many of then without compunction. They are advis ing investors to sell American securities at any price they can get. This advice sell in the last two days has been some thing tremendous. It will not be long, of course, before the American public will see the advantage of giving John Bull all he wants of this sort of re-States will soon be willing to accommodate him, knowing well that he will be when the cruel war is over.

It should be borne in mind that those who are advocating the boycott on American securities all protest that they have not the slightest belief in the possibility of war. Therefore their motive is solely revenge.

ROTHSCHILD WANTS PEACE. LONDON, Dec. 20.—(By Atlantic Ca-ble.) As the effect of the publication here of cablegrams quoting the Presidents of certain Chambers of Commerce in the United States as being opposed to war with Great Britain over the Venezuelan boundary question there was a slightly better feeling on the Stock Exchange today, though the markets were still unsettled. Consols fell 1-16 to 1-8, but other first-class securities were generally firm. Americans, however, continue very flat, though there were one or two fractional gains.

Baron Rothschild, discussing the sit-nation, said to a representative of the Associated Press: "From the business point of view, opinions cannot differ. All I want is peace." Continental opinion continues to support Great Britain and this naturally is made the most of by the English newspapers. Only Russian opinion thus far received has been non-committal.

A FINANCIAL CONSPIRACY. LONDON, Dec. 21.—The Standard's finnacial article says that it is rumored that the Rothschilds have decided to immediately withdraw £5,000,000 from America. Whether this is true or not, the gravity of the situation is undisputed. Nobody fears war, but it is questionable whether the United States will be able to maintain the gold standard and whether the sliver party will not become supreme and gold be driven to a heavy premium. President Cleveland's action has shattered all faith in the financial future of America.

The Daily News' financial articles gives as its opinion that a European ion to replenish the United States treasury is an impossibility at the present time.

Mr. Curtis's information was laid be-fore the President and Cabinet. What measures, if any, will be taken at once by the government to allay the panicky situation is problematic there seems no reasonable doubt that in the case of continued large withdrawals of gold, even for another week, the President will send a mesage to Congress urging the gravity of the situation as a reason for im mediate favorable action on the mendation already made that the Sec retary of the Treasury be authorized issue low-rate bonds to preserve integrity of the gold reserve. HIS LATEST MESSAGE.

President Cleveland Says that Contingency Has Reached Us. (REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.-The folwing is a message sent to Congress by President Cleveland today: To the Congress: In my last annual message the evils of our present finan-cial system were plainly pointed out, and the causes and means of depletion of the government gold were ex-plained. It was therein stated that after all efforts had been made by the executive branch of the government to protect our gold reserve by the issuance of bonds amounting to more than $162,000,000, such reserve then amounted to but little more than $75,000,000; that about $16,000,000 had been withdrawn from such reserve during the month next previous to the date of that mes-for shipment in the immediate future were predicted. The contingency then feared has reached us, and the withdrawal of gold and others that appear inevitable, threaten such a depletion in our gov ernment gold reserve as brings us face to face with the necessity of further action for its protection. This condi-tion is intensified by the prevalence in certain quarters of sudden and unusua venge. If he wishes to sell American apprehension and timidity in business property far below its value the United circles. We are in the midst of anapprenension and timidity in busine circles. We are in the midst of other season of perplexity caused our dangerous and fatuous finant operations. This might be expected recur with certainty as long as it is no amendment in our financial predicament is at all influenced by the recent insistence upon the position we should occupy in our relation to certain questions concerning our foreign policy, this furnishes a signal and impressive warning that even the patriotic sentiment of our people is not an adequate substitute for a sound financial policy. Of course there can be no doubt in any thoughtful mind as to the complete solvency of our nation, nor can there be any just apprehension that the American people will be satisfied with less than the homest payment of our public obligations in the recognized money of the world.

We should not overlook the fact, however, that aroused fear is unreasoning, and must be taken into account in all efforts to avert public loss and the sacrifice of our people's interests. The real and sensible cure for our recurring troubles can only be effected by a complete change in our financial scheme. Pending that, the executive branch of the government will not relax its efforts nor abandon its determination to use every means within its reach to maintain before the world the American credit, nor will there be any hesitation in exhibiting its confidence in the resources of our country and the constant patriotism of our people.

In view, however, of the peculiar situation now confronting us, I have ventured to herein express the earnest hope that Congress, in default of the inauguration of a better system of finance, will not take a recess from its labors before it has, by legislative entured to herein express the earnest hope that Congress, in default of the inauguration of our nation to meet in any circumstances every obligation it incurs do not admit of question.

I ask at the hands of the Congress such prompt aid as it alone has the power to give to prevent in time of fear and apprehension any sacrifice of the people's interests and public funds, or the impairment of our public credit in an effort by executive action to relieve the dangers of the present con-tingency.

The United States Senate Joins Hands With the House.

MEGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTS
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The United States Senate, by unanimous vote and without the formality of a roll-call, to-day passed the bull already adonted by day passed the bill already adopted by the House of Representatives empow-ering the President to appoint a com-mission to determine the Venezuela-British Gulana boundary. This action was the culmination of A debate adding a memorable page to Congressional history. It was a day of notable speeches by notable men. The subject of war between the United States and Great Britain was the prevailing theme which found express in lofty patriotic sentiments, in stirring in lofty patriotic sentiments, in stirring appeals for preparation and defense, in graphic portrayals of the horrors of war, and, at times, in defiant warnings to the people across the water. By a singular coincidence, the session which was to be marked by such vigorous debate and action, was opened by an invocation of classic beauty from the blind chaplain of the Senate, breathing the spirit of good-will between the two great English-speaking tween the two great English-speaking nations. This was speedily followed by the adoption of Senator Allen's some-what ironical resolution, calling upon the Finance Committee to investigate the needs for the unlimited coinage of

At all times during the four hours of discussion the galleries were besieged by an eager crowd, whose patriotic impulses found frequent expressions in applause, which the presiding officer sought vainly to suppress. The most notable utterances of the day were those of Senators Sherman, Teller, While, Lodge, Platt, Turple, Chandler, White, Caffery, Call and Stewart, representing all shades of political sentiment, and yet, in the main uniform. ment, and yet, in the main, uniform in urging the support of the President in vigorous assertions of the Monroe doc-trine, and, if need be, any action es-sential to maintain the national dignity. There were strong expressions also against the panic in American stocks and securities, which, it was said, the London commercial houses were seeking to bring about. Throughout the debate there was an undercurrent of feeling that, while the country would not shripk from war if it must come. not shrink from war if it must come, yet that calamity was not imminent.

Shortly before 4 o'clock Senator Morgan unexpectedly withdrew the amendments to the bill, leaving it in its original form. There was no demand for a roll-call, as the sentiment of the Senate was clearly a unit, and by a loud viva voce vote the bill was passed without a dissenting vote. This com-pleted the legislative enactment of the measure which, with the signature of the President, has the full force and ef-

of a law The passage of the bill was not, how-ever, the only exciting event of the day, for at 4:30 o'clock the President's message urging the gravity of the financial situation and calling on Congress not to adjourn for the holidays until relief its reading was followed with close attention, but the Senators, absorbed attention, but the Senators, abs with the stirring events of the debate were ready to adjourn without immediwere ready to adjourn without immediate consideration of the message.

The summary adjournment upon the motion of Senator Cockrell, one of the Democratic leaders, immediately after the conclusion of the reading of the President's message, was taken on the Republican side as a disposition not to consider the message seriously. Mr. Cockrell declined to define his motion or to discuss the question of the propriety of the suggestion.

Senator Gorman, replying to a question, said he did not care to criticize the President.

the President.
Senator Jones of Arkansas, when interviewed, simply remarked that he terviewed, simply remarked that thought the Senate would sit to Senator Allison thought there would be a recess, notwithstanding the message, as the Senate had already passed a resolution to that effect before the message was received.

Senator Hawley said it appeared to him as if the President was in a Bull Run panic, and Senators Teller and Cullom agreed that it looked as if the President was trying to offset the effect of his Venezuelan message, and that it was beginning to look as if the President had concluded from the favorable manner in which the Venezuelan message had been received, that Congress would follow any suggestion he might make.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS REGULAR SESSION

The resolution was then agreed to without division.
Senator Platt sought to have struck out the warlike preamble, and Senator Allen consented to have this struck out. The resolution, as finally agreed to, is as follows: "That the Committee on Finance be, and they are hereby directed and instructed to inquire and report, by bill or otherwise, whether it would not be expedient and proper for the government of the United States of America at this time to open its mints to the free and untimited coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and in addition thereto issue an adequate issue of full legal-tender treasury notes in the same manner as such notes have heretofore been issued and, in the interest of national banks and retire all bank currency."
This cleared the way for a renewal of the direct consideration of the Venezuelan bill, and Senator Morgan presented and briefly explained the amended bill.

zuelan bill, and Senator angal presented and briefly explained the amended bill.

The Venezuelan bill, as amended by the committee, read as follows: "That the sum of $100,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, be, and the same is hereby appropriated for the expenses of a commission to consist of three members to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to investigate and report to him the facts in regard to the divisional line between the republic of Venezuela and British Gulena, provided, that sec. 2 of the act approved July 31, 1891, making appropriations for legislative and judicial expenses of the government shall not apply to any commissioners appointed under this act."

Senator Platt urged that the House appointed under this act."

Senator Platt urged that the House resolution be adopted without change. He deprecated the talk of war. The American people did not seek war, nor would they, if need be, avoid any responsibility. But the conditions did not warrant heated talk of hostilities. In referring to the committee amendments, Mr. Platt said:

Mr. Platt said:

"Any amendment will be construed in England as a refusal by the Senate to uphold the President. There should be nothing done to allow this false impression to get abroad. The idea seems to prevail in England that the entire matter is a part of American political campaigning. It is most important that the British authorities and people have their minds disabused of this error. The American people were never more in earnest since the breaking out of the revolution than they are today."

earnest since the breaking out of the revolution than they are today."

Senator Sherman followed Senator Platt, repeating his declaration of yesterday, that he could not see the necessity for haste in the matter. The controversy was an ancient one and it was stry for haste in the matter. The con-troversy was an ancient one and it was only recently that the United States had taken cognizance of the question. The President's message' invited no haste. The American people needed no special incitement to their interest in upholding the Monroe doctrine. He said that while we had insisted upon preventing European encroachment said that while we had insisted upon preventing European encroachment upon American soil, we had ourselves disregarded the doctrine in the case of Mexico in taking possession of Texas and California. As a matter of fact, the doctrine had never been applied in any specific case. England, he said, is taking a very grave view of this matter.

"I am firmly convinced," he said, "that this controversy will be settled by England and Venezueka, and that not a drop of American blood will be shed in its adjustment."

not a drop of American blood will be shed in its adjustment."
Senator Sherman proceeded to argue carnestly for the adoption of the amendments suggested by the Committee on Foreign Relations. He regretted that there should be an attempt to pass this bill under the stress of excitement, especially as that excitement was not founded on actual danger. He counselled deliberation and deprecated the undue and eager haste as unbecoming to the dignity of the Senate.

Senator Mills of Texas, who next took the floor, thought that throughout the discussion the Senate had overlooked the most important consideration. Mr. Allen, he said, had announced that money was the essential element in the successful prosecution of war. He agreed with him. It might be possible, the successful prosecution of war. He agreed with him. It might be possible, he said, that if the mints were thrown open and the printing presses were started the people might have more money in their pockets, but when we proposed to go to war with the greatest nation on earth, the question of where our revenues were to come from was confessedly a vital matter. To engage in war was not child's play. The strength of the enemy was not to be underestimated. With Senator Sherman, he said, his voice was for peace, but it must be honorable and consistent peace.

but it must be honorable and consistent peace.

Today the United States and Great Britain stood face to face. They had tried to reach an agreement and had failed. The President had said that we should insist upon our position and resist England with all our power. "We are standing on the brink of battle," said he, "and prudence requires that we should look to our strong-box."

He pointed out the vast differences between our resources and obligations now and during the civil war. Then, said he, we did not have a burden of $180,000,000 of pensions to carry and we had, as a source of revenue, an income tax of unquestioned legality, and taxes on domestic manufactures. The latter had been swept away by a decision of the Supreme Court. Practically the only source left was the customs duties on imports. But where were the imports to come from if the States were to war with the mistress of the sea? "And now, standing on the edge of this conflict, the country is without the means of taxation to raise the revenue essential for such a vast undertaking," he declared.

The Senator demanded, before the

of taxation to raise the revenue essential for such a vast undertaking," he declared.

The Senator demanded, before the country plunged into this conflict, that this Congress adopt a constitutional amendment to be at once submitted to the legislatures for the taxation of real and personal property. The American people would never tolerate such a law under ordinary circumstances, but when the American honor and the American dignity was at stake, the people are always ready to shoulder the burden essential to carry forward any conflict that may come.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts said he would not offer his amendment, heretofore postponed, limiting the inquiry to April 1 next. He said he regarded it essential that there should be no division on this subject. The Senate, the House and the President should stand together. They should show to the world that the country is firm as adamant. The assertions made in London that this was only an electioneering dodge should be answered by united and definite action which would leave the subject beyond the possibility of misconstruction.

"We should say to those people in London," proceeded Senator Lodge, "that the American people cannot be dismayed or diverted by the efforts to cause a scare by selling American stocks, calling American loans and en-deavoring to cause a panic in Wall stocks, calling American loans and endeavoring to cause a panic in Wall street."

There was hearty applause from the galleries as Senator Lodge closed.

Senator Stewart pointed out the constant encroachments of Great Britain in Venezuela, Nicaragua and various points in the western world. The Senator did not believe war would come, but if it did, the country would uphold every step the President might take in supporting the Monroe doctrine. Again the galleries broke out with applause.

Senator White of California urged that the President be left unhampered in the selection of the commission. The Senator did not believe the war cloud was as ominous as it appeared to some Senators. He could not think that a solution was impossible, consistent with the dignity of the two nations.

Senator Mitchell of Oregon, in a brief colloquy with Senator White, took occasion to state what he believed to be the correct interpretation of the Monroe doctrine, namely, that no European power should be permitted to acquire one foot of soil in addition to what they now own in the Western Hemisphere.

Senator Caffery of Louisiana followed in a slow and measured speech, which was listened to with great attention.

"It is because I think war imminent,"

Senator Caffery of Louisiana followed in a slow and measured speech, which was listened to with great attention.

"It is because I think war imminent," he said, "if the contentions of either side are strenuously pressed, that I hope for conservative action by the Senate. Should war come, on the Senate and the House of Representatives must rest the responsibility, for Congress is invested solely with the war-making power. Why should there be haste?" asked the Senator, "in determining our course on such a momentous issue? Was our commerce hampered, or our ships delayed? Or is there any condition which calls for hasty action?"

The Senator urged caim, and dispassionate consideration of the case. He had some knowledge of the horrors of war, and he could not view without the deepest apprehension a course which might bring war to this country. The very appointment of this commission seemed to him a warlike step. It was, he believed, a very extreme application of the Monroe doctrine which made the United States fix boundaries between a European and South American government. He believed the people of the United States would respond to a call to arms and furnish adequate revenue for the prosecution of war. He did not share this opinion, but he hoped it was correct.

Senator Chandler followed Senator Caffery in a speech replete with keen sarcasm, but unequivocal in its advocacy of immediate action. Yesterday, he said, he thought it would be wise to amend the bill; today he did not think so. Now he thought it of the highest national importance that the bill should be passed as it came from the House. After all, the amendments proposed were not of importance.

Senator Chandler followed Senator Caffery in a speech replete with keen sarcasm, but unequivocal in its advocated to amend the bill; today he did not think so. Senator Chandler then delivered a glo

Cleveland had divorced politics from foreign affairs.

"I understand," Mr. Chandler proceeded sarcastically, "that stocks have gone down today; that Wall street is agitated because a Democratic President desires to sustain the honor of his country and is upheld by a Republican Congress. If stocks have gone down, I have no doubt that they are stocks that deserve to go down. I do not think we should be intimidated by these foreign capitalists who are pounding the stock board."

He then read from a cable to a New

He then read from a cable to a New York paper an account of a meeting of English capitalists who were described as being about ready to throw their American securities on the market. "Alas," he said, "has it come to this? Here is a President who has done more for English interests than any other for English interests than any other President who ever sat in the White House and yet today, because he stands firm for American honor, he has fallen so low in the estimation of Englishmen that there are now 'none to do him rev-erence.'

that there are now 'none to do him reverence.'"

"Was Rothschild at the meeting?" inquired Senator Allen.

"Oh," replied Senator Chandler contemptuously, "this is the same old game. This cable is the report of a meeting in London which pretended to be private, but was also intended to be public. It was intended to frighten Wall street and array the stock brokers and holders on the side of peace."

"Don't you think it would be a wise move, then?" asked Senator Allen, "to go ahead and force England to surrender the American securities she holds? We would then be independent of her financially."

render the American securities she holds? We would then be independent of her financially."

"Oh, yes:" replied Senator Chandler, "I am willing to accomplish our financial independence of England and afterward our industrial independence. But one thing at a time. This meeting in London was part of a conspiracy to alarm our people in the belief that American stockholders would check those insane enough to defend our national honor. Therefore, at this meeting, not I who was rash enough a month ago to predict that this controversy would have to be settled in twenty years, but the President, that idol of-aristocrats and capitalists of Great Britain, is described as insane."

Just as Senator Chandler concluded, Senator Tillman of South Carolina made his entrance into the Senatorial arena for the first time. He appeared anxious to cross swords with Senator Chandler, and that gentleman, although at first reluctant, finally acquiesced.

The incident caused considerable amusement. Senator Tilman wanted to know whether, if Senator Chandler were convinced that the passage of this bill would result in the extinction of the gold reserve and the establishment were convinced that the passage of this bill would result in the extinction of the gold reserve and the establishment of the silver standard of the United States, he would vote for it. "The Senator from South Carolina," replied Senator Chandler, smilingly, but evasively, "like his other Populistic as-sociates, is disposed to mix up all ques-tions."

"I am not a Populist," shouted Sen-tor Tillman. ator Tillman.
"Then what are you?" queried Senator Chandler.

"Then what are you?" queried Senator Chandler.
"I am a Democrat, if there are any Democrats," replied Senator Tillman.
"I am a follower of Thomas Jefferson, Calhoun and Lincoln."

The reference to Lincoln and Democracy provoked a laugh, and Senator Chandler ejaculated, as he looked around the Senate, "I guess we are all Democrats, then."

"Answer my question," persisted Senator Tillman. "Would you vote for the resolution? I would," he added, with a shake of his hand.
"Oh," replied Senator Chandler, "yes, resolution? I would," he added, with a shake of his hand.

"Oh," replied Senator Chandler, "yes, I will vote for it; I will vote for any sacrifice save the absurdity of the Senator from Nebraska (Mr. Allen) to sustain the national honor."

Senator Turpie of Indiana spoke in behalf of the Foreign Relations Committee as to the amendments He said they were framed to make more potent this protest against European aggression on the South American continent. "When we pass this bill," declared he "we make the Venezuela boundary our affair. We cross the Rublcon. We designate a boundary line and say it is to be the line." Senator Turple asserted that our guardianship of the southern republics was imperative. It was an obligation imposed upon this country by unyielding conditions.

Senator Call of Florida spoke of the embarrassments of Congress in case the proposed committee reported in favor of the British contention. He trged that the demand of the hour was for firm and dignified action, not for a discussion of war.

Senator Teller of Colorado said he regretted that the President had not himself taken action without awalting the operations of a commission. As the President desired a commission he should be left to name its members. He should be untrammeled by a requirement that the names be submitted to the Senate. There should be no fear that the President, with so much at stake, would designate mere politicians or second-rate men for such a commission. The chambers of commerce throughout the country, the Governors of States, the most distinguished divines, declare that the Monroe doctrine must be upheld.

Mr. Teller said he did not regard war as imminent. He was not frightened by the fall of stocks in London or the drop of railroad stocks in this country. This would not affect wheat or cotton. It applied only to railway speculators. The American people should not be diverted from maintaining what they believed to be right by any question of money. In his judgment, when the American people should not be diverted from maintaining what they believed to be right by any question of money. In his judgment, when the American people believe their bonor is menaced, they will accept every responsibility, whatever result may come. But he did not believe their bonor is menaced, they will accept every responsibility, whatever result may come. But he did not believe their bonor is menaced, they will accept every responsibility. Senator Chandler here moved to lay on the table the amendments of the committee reported by Senator Morgan. This was adopted by a viva voce vote and with but a few dissenting votes. Thus, unexpectedly, the original House bill remained before the Senate without amendment.

During the executive session a measage from the President was presented and when the doors were reopened the message was read. When the reading was completed, Senator Cockrell of Missouri (Dem.,) said: "I move the Senate adjourn."
Sentor Hawley of Connecticut said: "I expect some consideration of this serious message from our Democratic friends."

"Il expect some consideration of this serious message from our Democratic friends."

"We want time to consider it," replied Senator Cockrell, abruptly, and without further comment the Senate adjourned.

The Senate spent almost an hour in executive session, waiting for the President's message. The House resolution for the holiday recess was amended so as to provide for adjournment from tomorrow until January 6. This proceeding was accompanied by an explanation from the Democratic side of the chamber that it would be impossible for them to complete their committee arrangements, even if the Senate did remain in session until Tuesday next.

HOUSE.—The session of the House today was purely a perfunctory affair. The Speaker was not ready to announce the committees, and the House was ready to adjourn for the holiday recess, but the fact that the Senate had not yet acted on the bill for the appointment of the Venezuelan commission forced the House, after waiting an hour and a half for the Senate to act, to adjourn until tomorrow.

The only business transacted was the passage of a bill for changing the terms of United States courts in Iowa and the presentation of a notice of contest against Representative Johns of Virginia on the ground of fraud.

She was reading at the time and still held the book in her hand when the other members of the family rushed into the room and found her dead. Susinto the room and found her dead. Sus-picion at once pointed to her own cousin, Booker Steinberger, and a dep-uty sheriff visited his home this morn-ing and, finding evidences of his guilt, placed him under arrest. He was lodged placed him under arrest. He was lodged in jail at Glasgow. Excitement runs high and he may be lynched. In his pocket was found a letter, the contents of which created a sensation in the neighborhood. It was from Miss Anna and charged him with having taken advantage of her. It requested him to marry her at once and save her honor. The Steinberger families are prominent, and the affair has created a tremendous sensation. Anna Belle was the youngest daughter of James Steinberger, while Booker is the second son of Col. W. B. Steinberger. The jail at Glasgow is being strongly guarded.

William P. Harrison Went Naked

and Let His Hair Grow Long. REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—William Preston Harrison, son of the late Mayor Harrison of Chicago, who has just returned from a year's cruise among the South Sea islands, has many interesting stories to tell of his voyage. Besides narrowly escaping death at the hands of cannibals in the Solomon Islands, he had numerous other startling experiences. SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20 .- William had numerous other startling experiences.

"A native may take you into his house at night and treat you the best kind," he said. "He will never molest you there on the score of hospitality, and you can remain there and be perfectly safe. Nevertheless, the next day, after you start away, he is just as llable as not to overtake you and knock you on the head with his club. The social ethics are then off, if it may be considered that being boiled in the head-takers' pot is not a social affair. I saw in some places as many as seventy-five skulls in a place, all relies of the head-hunters. There were many places where such lots of skulls could be seen. The more heads a brave had taken the higher he was esteemed. They hold the heads in the same estimation that an Indian does his scalps. They add renown to him according to the number he has. As long as this state of figuring prevails it can be seen the fighting will not stop.

"I went down to the Pacific Islands largely for pleasure, but intending to do some literary work white absent. I had worked very hard white in Chicago and wanted a good rest. The island life is so peculiar that I fell in with island ways and did no work at all. I discarded all clothes except a native garment about my lohns and let my beard grow long till I got back to Sydney. While going naked the sun burned my back till it became exceedingly sore and the skin peeled off in patches. Finally it healed up and got as hard and as impervious to the sun's rays as that of any native.

"I went about as much as I dared on the islands and much more than I would again. It is down there as it once was on the Western plains and mountains with the Indians. You get accustomed to the danger and don't always think so much about it as you ought. I would not go through again what I have this time for anything in the world.

what I have this time for anything in the world.

"I also spent considerable time during my absence in the interior of Samoa. I slept night after night with Malletoa, Tamases and other chiefs of the Island. They told me a great deal of their trouble. My opinion is that there will be another war there, and it may come soon. The correspondents at Apia don't give the facts. They don't know them. They do not go into the interior and a man in Alaska might just as well be quoted on what was going on in the United States.

"When I left the King and different chiefs I was fairly loaded down with presents and I prize them all highly. They all besought me to return, which I may do in a few months. It was so fascinating there that I would like to go back, but I don't care to see any more of the Solomon Islanders."

breakaway came to most people in the breakaway came to most people in the street as a total surprise. The first quotations received for American securities from London prepared bankers and brokers for a stormy day. The prices recorded showed declines extending to 5 per cent, and the London market was reported decidedly ragged. Each successive cable indicated still lower figures, and it was finally reported that many jobbers on the London stock exchange had refused to accept orders.

The unfavorable news was coincident.

ported that many jobbers on the London stock exchange had refused to accept orders.

The unfavorable news was coincident with the preparations by the gold-shipping houses for Saturday's exports to Europe. The sinister feature of the day was the advance in rates for call money to 75 per cent., reflecting the calling of loans. Three failures were reported, only one, that of S. S. Sands & Co., was of financial importance. The railway and miscellaneous bond market was demoralized, the decline ranging up to 15 per cent. It was rumored a single house had dumped $400,000 worth of Reading bonds on the market.

The local market started in at a semi-panicky gait, the declines the first few minutes extending to 5½ per cent. in New Jersey Central. The declines in international shares were especially severe, St. Paul giving way 4½, Southern preferred 4½. L. and N. 3½, D. and R. G. preferred. 2½, Kansas and Texas, preferred, 4½; New York Central 2 per cent. The recessions in the Industrials were also notable, Chicago Gas losing 4½, Leather preferred 3½. The weakness of the market both here and in London was clearly due in a large measure to liquidation. There were some further sharp declines ofter 10:15 o'clock. B. and O. and Delaware and Hudson lost 5 per cent. each. The downward tendency soon came to a halt, and a raily ensued, in which the leading stocks showed gains of from 1 to 1½ per cent.

the highest quotation reported in about two years.

The market was wild during the second hour of trading, with heavy losses generally, the decline extending to 11 per cent in Consolidated Gas. Recessions of 6, 7 and 8 per cent were recorded in some leading stocks. The failure of two firms was announced on exchange. At midday call money ruled at 25 per cent. with a brisk demand at that price. Trading throughout the forenoon was heavy, the sales aggregating 375,600 shares, of which 370,800 were listed and 70,800 unlisted.

Prices continued to break badly until 12:30 o'clock. The losses at that time extended to 15½ per cent in Lead preferred. The market at 1 o'clock had a sharp rally and some shares improved.

extended to 15½ per cent in Lead preferred. The market at 1 o'clock had a sharp rally and some shares improved over 3 per cent. from the lowest, despite the advance in posted rates for demand sterling by a leading drawer to 490½. At 1 o'clock money on call was 75 cents. The upward movement was stemmed around 1:30 o'clock on realizing sales, in which a liberal part of the gains were lost. There were frequent sales of bonds and stocks on account of firms that failed. At 2 o'clock speculation was irregular. Call money was 19 per cent. Soon after 2 o'clock a rallying tendency develoked in the market, and in the next half-hour recoveries from the lowest were extablished, extending to 11 per cent. In Lead preferred. The rally was helped by a break from 80 per cent. The top figure for call money dropped to 6 per cent. Near the close the rate jumped again to 50 per cent., and the stock market became irregular, and so closed.

and the stock market became irregular, and so closed.

Frederick D. Tappen, president of the Gallatin National Bank, chairman of the Clearing-house Committee during the last panic, said today that at the present time the New York banks are all right, and are ready to face any emergency that may arise. He added that the surplus reserve amounted to $20,000,000, and that therefore there was no cause for alarm on the score of money. Tappen pointed out, however, that while these conditions now prevail, the situation is still a serious one, though likely to be allayed soon. The rumor that the United States is endeavoring to secure a loan of $50,000,000 on the continent is ridiculed generally.

Addison Cammack, the veteran operator, said today: "The stock market seems to indicate a bad state of affairs, and the situation is the warrant for every man taking care of his holdings."

new bonds." He said further that he MINOR FAILURES.

The fallure of Nichols, Frothingham & Co., also announced today on the Stock Exchange, is an unimportant one. C. S. Frothingham is 'the only member of the firm. His membership dates from 1877. The fallure is due wholly to the fall in stocks. Nelson J. Waterbury, counsel for the house, advised an assignment for the protection of the reditors. He says he believes the firm will resume business at an early date. The assignee is Clinton E. Sweet.

BOSTON STOCK-DEALERS. BOSTON STOCK-DEALERS.
BOSTON, Dec. 20.—Prices in the Boston market followed the declines on the New York Exchange today. At the opening there was little activity, but there seemed to be in the air a semipanicky feeling. All local stocks showed a sharp falling-off from yesterday's prices. Montana local mining stocks opened down 1½ at 70, then broke to 68, but opened 16½ off from yesterday.

given as the cause. The concern is a minor one.

Lee Higginson & Co., and twenty other leading banking firms of the city signed a call for a meeting of the stock exchange at noon tomorrow for the purpose of appointing a committee to go to Washington and represent to the President, Secretary Olney, Speaker Reed and the Senators and Representatives of Massachusetts that they are not correctly informed of the opinion of the business men of Boston as to the present crisis, which calls for more careful consideration than it is now receiving.

AT PHILADELPHIA. PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20.—Nearly all the stocks traded in on the Philadel-phia exchange opened below yester-day's closing. Some local industrials declined as much as $8 a share.

COLORADO NOT EXCITED. DENVER (Colo...) Dec. 20.—The Wall-street panic did not seriously affect mining stocks on any of the exchanges in Colorado. Orders were received from Eastern holders of some of the higher-priced stocks to sell at once, as the moriey was needed to save losses in the market there. The local market promptly absorbed all offerings and, though such stocks as Isabella, Anaconda and Union dropped from six to ten points, they quickly recovered and closed strong at nearly the same figures as yesterday. None of the low-priced stocks suffered and on the whole the market was strong.

Brokers are generally confident that the panic in New York, based as it is on the shipments of gold, will rather help gold-mining stocks than other wise.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Representatives of Bradstreet's agency at twenty three cities interviewed many leading tives of Bradstreet's agency at twentythree cities interviewed many leading manufacturers and merchants on Thursday as to the effect, present or prospective, on trade, of the international situation precipitated by the President's message, the message itself, and as to the possibility of actual hostilities. In no instance, so far as the interviews extend, is war considered the probable outcome. So far as the effect on business is concerned, Eastern and Western manufacturing centers, and many of the larger Western and Northwestern distributing points report no effect is felt whatever.

The evening Standard, referring to the depression this afternoon, says:
"The declines were in sympathy with a further heavy fall in Americans which went down from $10 to $3, St. Paul leading the way. American bonds were also freely offered, and unless these are taken up for New York, the outlook is gloomy." There was extreme depression on the Manchester and Glasgow stock exchanges.

FOOLISH REPORTS. The Indiana Commandery of the Loyal Legion Adopts Resolutions. (REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REFORT, EVANSVILLE (Ind.,) Dec. 20.—The annual meeting of the Indiana Loyal Legion was held here last night. Almost a full attendance was present and thirteen new candidates were accepted. A banquet was held at the St. George Hotel, with 300 present, at which the following resolutions were adopted with ollowing resolutions were adopted with leafening applause

Intions be forwarded to the President of the United States."

Gen. Lew Wallace was vehemently applauded when he said: "The Monroe doctrine is the gage of challenge thrown to all the great powers of Europe. If one accepts the gage it will, in all likelihood, be with most of the others in the alliance. As Lord Salisbury took six months to compose his response, it is reasonable to believe His Lordship consumed three months looking for alles in case he refused to arbitrate. England in arms against us is one thing; all Europe, with the exception of Russia, is another. Here is the conclusion: If we must fight, I wish it could be with England alone. Not that it would be an easy affair if the duel were single-handed, but that it would be a complete affair—a finality.

"It would go hard with us at first.

were single-nanded, but that it would be a complete affair—a finality.

"It would go hard with us at first, but we would not be idle. Before a year there would be no British commerce, the interpretation of which is simply British bankruptcy, and at the end, as I see it, we would own everything on this side of the globe, from the Gulf of Mexico to the North Pole; second, Russia would be established in Constantinople and hurrying the conclusion in British India. It all depends on the constancy of our people. If they endure and go grimly on, the hour will come when we can effectually wake the democracy of England."

or tenable in Dr. Depew's published utterances on the subject. He said:
"When in this country the word 'war' is pronounced, three classes of men at once spring into prominent notice.
"First, the sentimentalists. They oppose war on any ground, though the country may be trodden upon and of them comprehends the question really at issue.

"After all this comes the calm, dispassionate judgment of the American people. When the people of this country thus judge a controversy and utter a decision, that decision is more trustworthy and accurate, nearer the truth, than all the theories of college professors and educated students. We believe, the President believes, the historical view is true. We believe that England has aggressively and schemingly colonized American territory. Now the Monroe doctrine—I do not care what you call it; it might be called the

"The world is divided in two. This continent, America for Americans and American institutions, and the East for the European monarchs. This is our policy. The United States, as the strongest nation on this continent, must uphold that policy. An attempt to violate it anywhere on the continent is a blow to us.

"Dr. Depew, too, has come out in a surprising way. He says, in substance, 'Cleveland has made a bluff, and he and Salisbury will ultimately settle the question by arbitration.' Fancy our submitting our rights to have an American policy, our vital principle of existence, to a tribunal of arbitration. It would be funny, if it was not silly."

OTTAWA (Ont.,) Dec. 20.—Officials of the government claim that in the case of war between Great Britain and the United States, Canada could in twenty-four hours put 30,000 fully-equipped men into the field and hold any force the United States is likely to bring against this county in check for a couple of months at least. The situation is generally viewed as one of the greatest gravity, calling for prompt preparations for defense, but not for any alarm. In event of hostilities, Gen. Montgomery More, commander of the imperial forces at Halifax, would take charge of the defense as the senior imperial officer in the country.

The Journal says: "The Dominion government should take time by the forelock and take all reasonable steps to insure our making as good a showing as we can if invasion comes. The Boerse Gazette remarks: "The PARIS, Dec. 20.—The secretary of the United States Embassy here, Harry Vignaud, in an interview published in the Gil Blas today, is quoted as saying: "The United States cannot permit any nation to forcibly annex any American territory. In this respect the doctrine of President Cleveland is more moderate than the opinion of an immense majority of Americans. Our only fear is that men of prudent finds, like Mr. Cleveland, will be overwhelmed. It is certain that the United States will yield nothing, and Great Britain, who has everything to lose in case of war, will recede, for war means that Canada will enter the federation of the United States and that English trade will be destroyed within a month after the outbreak of hostilities. A few shells thrown into an open port will cost England dear. It would be the ruin of her colonial ampire.

It would be the ruin of her colonial empire.

"Unquestionably, France will take advantage of the occasion to settle the questions of Egypt and Siam, and Russia will advance her interests in the direction of India. Those are the reasons why Great Britain will recede. The United States cannot yield any of the principles of the message."

Sir Charles Dilke, who is now in this city, in an interview today, is quoted as saying that he approves of the attitude of the Marquis of Salisbury on the Venezuelan question and considers that arbitration is impossible. He said, however, that an outbreak of hostilities would be too deplorable to consider, and added that while the conquest of Canada by the United States was possible, it would be at the cost of sacrifices similar to those of the war of secession.

SAYS HE IS INNOCENT.

HERIFF BURR THINKS MAYNE HAS BEEN SINNED AGAINST.

Though Opposed to Court, Jury and Hint of Sensations.

Sheriff Burr is in San Diego, chaperoning his prisoner, Clifton E. Mayne, who is under a twenty-five-year sentence for rape. It was expected that the officer and the felon would return to this city last evening after Mayne had been given a chance to tell "his story to the San Diego grand jury, but they did not arrive home, owing, perhaps, to the inclement weather and the precarious condition of the prisoner's health. It appears that, if he is correctly reported, the Sheriff has allowed himself to be interviewed and injudiciously gave an opinion of his protege which is directly contrary to that of the jury of tweive men who tried the man for debauching the Shipton girl. The San Diego Union, of Friday says: "Clifton E. Mayne arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from Los Angeles, in charge of Sheriff Burr and Deputy Sheriff Aguirre of that city. Mrs. Shipton, her daughter Della and a younger daughter arrived from Tha Juana a few minutes after Mayne had reached the city. Mrs. Shipton and her girls went to the lodging-house where they had stayed previous to their flight across the line. J. L. Copeland and W. J. Murphy, Mayne's attorneys, together with J. M. Howells of the Fiume Company, had arrived the previous evening, and from the moment the various factions reached the city the pot began to boil.

"Copeland was so indiscreet yesterday morning as to make known that he was aware that Mrs. Shipton was coming to the city. He told a friend that the woman was coming to give herself up to Sheriff Burr to be taken to Los Angeles to answer the charge of subornation of perjury preferred against her on account of the last affidavit given by Della Shipton, in wideh the sirl alleged that she had lied on the witness stand and that Mayne had never wronged her.

"Copeland's admission, together with a few hints dropped last night by Sheriff Burr, give a good indication of the plot now on foet to secure Mayne's release, or at least a new trial. Briefly, it is to take Mrs. Shipton and her girls to Los Angeles and there make a fi charge Mayne will have no difficulty in frequently seeing the girl and exercising upon her his famous arts of persuasion.

"Such a state of affairs might result in a complete recantation on the part of the girl, with sufficient detail to warrant a charge against the Wrights for subornation of perjury in inducing the girl to swear that Mayne had wronged her. If Elsie can be persuaded to change her testimony to exonerate Mayne, the case against him falls to the ground, and a new trial would beyond doubt result in his acquittal.

"Sheriff Burr" was seen last night, and he talked with much more freedom than was expected. He was asked whether visitors were allowed to see Mayne at his room at the Albemarle. The report was current that Mrs. Shipton and Della were to meet Mayne at his room at 6 o'clock last evening. Sheriff Burr said that only Mayne's attorneys were allowed to see him, and that no others had seen him.

"If Della Shipton came to see him, would you allow the visit?" was asked.

"Oh, I could not prevent it if Mayne wanted to see her, replied Sheriff Burr.

"How is Mayne's health?"

"Mayne is a pretty sick man, said the Sheriff. 'It is true he ran upstairs here with considerable agility, but he fell at the top and had to be supported or he would have fainted. He told me on the way down that he was going to make a show of strength, and his wonderful nerve helped him out."

"Then Sheriff Burr entered upon an astonishing line of talk. 'I do not believe Mayne is guilty,' he said. 'I worked hard to secure his conviction, because I believed him guilty of the fearful crime charged against him. Now I am convinced that he is innocent, and has been sinned against. I believe there will be startling developments at Los Angeles within the next few days—possibly before I return. Just the moment Elsie Shipton is separated from the Wrights the whole truth will come out, and Mayne will be a free man. I would not be surprised to hear of arrests made at any time. I have not seen the warrant, but I expect the move.'

"Who wil

pect the move.'
"'Who will be arrested — the Wrights?" "Yes. I should not be surprised to see a move made in court to get Elsie Shipton from the Wrights, who adopted her, and placed in the care of h mother. Then look out for develo her, and placed in the care of her mother. Then look out for developments."

"Then you think Elsie would change her mind and give an affidavit like Della's, exonerating Mayne?"

"Yes, sir.' replied Sheriff Burr, The-lieve Elsie Shipton will give the inwardness of this thing and exonerate Mayne as soon as she is out of the hands of the Wrights. Della sticks to her last affidavit as true, and Elsie would do the same. I am going to take Mrs. Shipton and Della back with me tomorrow if I can find them."

"Sheriff Burr evidently added the "if in a Pickwickian sense, as he had every opportunity yesterday of knowing the exact whereabouts of Mrs. Shipton and Della. In fact, according to Copeland, an arrangement was made whereby Mrs. Shipton was to come to this city and give herself up to Burr, and the truth of this statement was shown by Mrs. Shipton's prompt appearance, "Doubtless much comment will be caused by the evident understanding between Copeland, who has acted as attorney for Mayne and the Flume Company, and Sheriff Burr, who is supposed to be nothing more than a peace officer in charge of a prisoner. Sheriff Burr's astonishing talk was accentuated when he added to the reporter: "Of course I do not wish to be understood as setting up my opinion against that of the District Attorney of Los Angeles, with whom I am expected to co-operate, but it is true, just the same, that I believe Mayne is innocent."

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

Congress yesterday, the President re newed the suggestions made in his annual message for the current year relative to the necessity for legislation to relieve the financial situation. He urgently requests Congress not to take has by legislative enactment or declaration, done something not only to remind those apprehensive among our people that the resources of this government and a scrupulous regard for honest dealing afford a sure guarantee but to reassure the world that with these factors and the patriotism of our citizens, the ability and determination of our nation to meet in any circumstances every obligation it incurs do

Although his language is somewhat circumlocutory, the President's meaning is not obscure. The financial "pre dicament" has been aggravated by the excitement consequent upon the Venezuelan affair, and there is reason to fear an unusual pressure upon the treasury for gold within the next few days or weeks. He, therefore, appeals in meeting the emergency. The President does not insist upon the carrying out of his former suggestions, but de sires that Congress shall at least enter upon an earnest consideration of the financial situation, with a view to the passage of remedial legislation of

The President's apprehensions ar not wholly groundless. The gold reserve is down to about $70,000,000, and indications point to heavy withdrawals of gold in the near future. If it lies within the power of Congress to remedy the difficulty, the needed legisla tion should not be withheld. But there are decided differences of opinion as to the best course to be pursued. It is doubtful whether Congress can agree upon any financial legislation with ut protracted discussion. In the mean time, the credit of the nation must be maintained, and the integrity of its currency must be preserved. In order to accomplish this result another bond issue will probably become necessary.

That the administration will promptly adopt this expedient, in the absence of Congressional action, is a foregone conclusion. In fact, no other course would be feasible in the existing emergency.

Congress will take up this question in the spirit which its importance manship. If every Senator and every Representative will subordinate all minor considerations to an earnest and patriotic desire to pursue that course which is wisest and best, no difficultie will be impossible of solution. The financial question will not be least in

UNITED WE STAND.

In the Senate yesterday, after brief debate, the Venezuelan Commission Bill was passed by a unanimous vote, without amendment. Certain amendments, not of a vital character, were suggested by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, but these were voted down, and the bill was passed as it came from the House, without a dissenting This measure appropriates $100,000 to defray the expenses of a commission to ascertain the true divisional line between Venezuela and British Guiana, and authorizes the President to appoint such commission. The be to ascertain and report upon facts. It is to be vested with neither discretionary nor advisory power, and its duty will have been fully performed en it shall have ascertained the true state of affairs as regards the boundary dispute, and shall have reported the same to the President.

The passage of this measure through both houses of Congress, by unanimous vote, is fraught with deep significance It is the strongest possible indorsement of President Cleveland's position as stated in his message. It is a formal notice to the world that the Monroe doctrine, as restated and extended by Mr. Cleveland, will be maintained by the government and the people of the United States at all hazards.

Europe cannot fail to recognize the significance of the action taken by and a subject for moderation, for Congress in this matter. The glib attempts of the British newspapers to treat the whole affair as a joke become a ghastly mockery in the light of the deliberate and firm action of the Senate, supplementing that of the House of Representatives. Our friends (or emies) across the sea are at last brought face to face with the fact that, importance among the problems which whether the Monroe doctrine has or has not a recognized place in the code of our representatives in the near of international law, the United States future. Let moderation, prudence, and intends that it shall be recognized as good-will prevail, and all will be well. vital principle and a controlling fact. When the full knowledge of these things has permeated Europe, there will be far less levity at the expense of 'Monroeism" than there has been in

The unanimity in Congress is a faithful reflex of the unanimity among the American people in the present crisis. Throughout the nation there is but one sentiment, and that sentiment heartily sustains the President and Congress in the position assumed and the action thus far taken. Democrats, Republicans, Populists, and men of all shades of political opinion (except Anarchists) have ceased to be partisans becoming patriots. Never, within the history of this nation, has an issue been presented which so thoroughly aroused and united the American people as the issue raised by President Cleveland's message has aroused and united them. If England imagines that the South will be lukewarm in the present emergency, she makes a serious mistake; for no section of the country is more enthusiastic in support of the government than are the Southern

All these things must make it apparent to Great Britain that she has to deal, not with a political campaign maneuver, but with a united, determined and patriotic nation of more than seventy millions of people—a na-tion fairly honeycombed with veterans atest war of modern timespeople whose courage has been too roughly proved to be called in quesdon, and who are ready to make any sacrifice, however great, for the maintenance of their country's honor and prestige. #### AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

LOS ANGELES THEATER. The dun and dripping skies had an effect on the attendance at the Los Angeles last night, and yet a goodly number braved the moisture to find out what sort of a panacea for the blues would be pre-scribed by De Wolf Hopper's "Dr. Syn-tax." They found the mixture pleas-ant to take and everybody enjoyed the doses of melody and mirth with smil-"Dr. Syntax" skates around the neighborhood of the old well-known play of "School," but its adapter did not permit that familiar creation to be him a "pent-up Utica." Indeed, there is scarcely more than the osseous system of the old play retained, or, as is said in the argument on the programme, "he has taken the skeleton of a straight comedy and draped it with the bright-hued garments of comic opera." The piece lends itself but indifferently to the popular idea of what concoctions of this sort should be There is but little of the picturesque in it, and the usual display of fieshings, glittering properties and garish costumes give way to girls in long dresses—or at least long enough to disclose but little more than the twinkle of shapely ankles—men in hunting costumes or the scant garb of oarsmen, and a couple of professors in mortar boards and clothes of black.

Musically, "Dr. Syntax" scarcely system of the old play retained, or, as boards and clothes of black.

Musically, "Dr. Syntax" scarcely compares with "Wang." It contains, to be sure, some sprightly numbers and one or two notable melodies for the ensemble, but as a whole it lacks the lively movement of Mr. Hopper's other piece, and the comic opera atmesphere is hardly sufficiently apparent, particularly in the harmonious effects. Miss Waltzinger has a beautiful solo in the opening scene of the second act, which she sang with such splendor of expression, such purity and freshness of tone, and with such an evident fund of reserve force as to gain for her a rioss serve force as to gain for her a most generous encore. Her voice is delight-fully sweet and true; indeed it is by fully sweet and true; indeed it is by odds the most pleasing soprano that has been heard here in light opera this season. The blending of her velrety tones with the hidden chorus in this number was, musically speaking, the gem of the entire performance.

Bilthe and bonnie Edna Wallace-Hopper is even more captivating in the garments of her sex than she was in the snowy flannel male sult in which she made her earlier appearance in "Wang." She made an ideal boarding-house miss, always fit for a firtation and frolicmade her earlier appearance in "Wang." She made an ideal boarding-house miss, always fit for a fiirtation and frolic-some with mischief, and was generally a delight. Of course, De Wolf Hopper was capital. It would be a dull and mediocre medium, indeed, in which his comedy talents would not sparkle like the baubles in a coronet. As Dr. Syntax he is decidedly a thing of joy and good humor, as unctious as he is long in stature, as gay in spirits as he is dull in garb. Ida Lester added much to the merriment of the occasion by her clever simulation of the sleepy, gumchewing, doll-carrying Miss Psyche Persimmons, and Alice Hosmer achieved distinction as Zenobla Tropics the warm-hearted and susceptible female head of the seminary. John Parr as Jack Alden and Edmund Stanley as Arthur Barrington, deserve more than passing praise, and even more than this may be said of Alfred Klein and Mr. Guise, who were both extremely clever in their respective roles of Lord Lawntennis and Prof. Scowies. "Dr. Syntax" may be consulted this afternoon at the matinee, and again tonight. He is worthy a visit. His prescriptions are sugar-coated and warranted to cure duil spirits, torpid liver and that tired feeling with unerring certainty.

BURBANK. This afternoon and to night will be the last opportunities this season to see the clever people of the Frawley Company, this being the close of their engagement. "The Lost Paradise" is a striking play, well and thoroughly presented.

COMING ATTRACTION. Commend ing Christmas night Lillian Lewis will be seen in a four-nights engagement at the Los Angeles Theater in a big spectacular production of "Cleopatra." Choruses, ballets, tableaux vivants, muical numbers, panoramic views, Cleopa-ra's barge under full sail, the famous ra's barge under full sail, the tailbustorm scene, gorgeous costumes, all the scenery and calcium lights and electric effectors are included in the production, together with the startling novelty, almost sensational in its boldness, the barefoot ballet dance and other strik-

Pomona is clamoring for a "genuin cold water vicinity," and Long Beach is clamoring because its vicinity is overrun with an entirely superfluous ount of cold water. Truly, this is a hard community to suit.

A Council committee, in the begina Council committee, in the begins ning of its investigation of alleged mu-micipal crookedness, strikes this sort of a snag. Of a dozen desired witnesses, all employees of the city, none can be found when sought to be subpoenaed.

What might serve as a funny bit of business in a comic opera or burlesque, occurred yesterday in the Health Office when the request was made in all se-housness that a post-mortem examination be made by the Health Officer of a dead goose, the owner of which thought himself imposed upon in its purchase. Next!

The long-expected rain has really ome at last, and Los Angeles is being soaked to the bones with a downpour such as Southern California can sup ply. The Scotch mist has some pene trating qualities, but is dry and supercompared with a real Los Ansoaker. It is worth it, though, and farmers' faces grow wider every hour with the prospect of a reasonably wet season after all.

MUSICAL MENTION.

"The Messiah" was given last even-ing at Simpson Tabernacle, under the auspices of the Treble Clef Club and Women's Orchestra, assisted by Stew-art Taylor's Choral Society of Pasawith Harley Hamilton as conduc tor and Miss Mary L. O'Donoughue, accompanist. The soloists were Mmes. Martinez, soprano; Mrs. Llewellyn, alto;

Martinez, soprano; Mrs. Llewellyn, alto; Aloys Werner, tenor, and F. L. Huebner, bass. A large number of the chorus were absent on account of the weather, which apparently had an equally bad effect upon the audience.

The chorus did some really excellent work, singing with much expression and power, but as much can hardly be said of the soloists. The orchestra did its best to climb over the mountain it had set itself at, but evidently found it a difficult task.

Band Concert.

The second concert of the Blanchard-The second concert of the Blanchard-Fitzberald Concert Band was given at Hazard's Pavilion yesterday afternoon, and though the wet weather and the Christmas preparations reduced the size of the audience, the programme was much enjoyed by those who were present. With due regard for the present epidemic of weddings, the programme included the Introduction and Bridal Chorus of act third, from Lohengrin, and the Mendelssohn Wedding March. The chorus was given a delightful reading, but the tempo of the march was taken at a pace that lost it all its beauty and stateliness of movement, and which would have interfered serjously with the dignity of a bridal party. The march was intended to be joyous but not an hilarious rush. The Rienzi overture, which was so finely given at the first concert, was repeated by request. The Zikoff Idylle, "The Tprolean and His Love," Verdi's overture "Nabuccodonosor," the Postillon Waltz by Ph. Fahrbach, a selection from "Philemon and Baucis," by Gound-Morelli, and Sousa's march, "The Beau Ideal," completed the programme and made a delightful afternoon. Fitzberald Concert Band was given at

Ex-Humane Officer Hutchins Suc for His Salary.

for His Salary.

Ex-Humane Officer D S. Hutchins instituted suit against the directors of the Humane Society yesterday, and attached all the funds which the society has laid by in eight months. Mr. Hutchins sues for $600 alleged to be due him as salary for six months, less $146.67 paid on account.

The suit is the outgrowth of a misunderstanding between Mr. Hutchins and the directors of the society regarding the compensation he was to receive as the society's special agent. He alleges that his understanding was that for the first few months he was to work for a nominal sum until he had demonstrated that he was qualified for the position. After that he was to receive such wages as the society could afford to pay and his services might be considered to be reasonably worth.

Mr. Hutchins had been employed but a short time before he received the commendations of the directors and members of the society, individually and collectively. The treasury was practically empty when he entered upon his labors, but through vigorous prosecutions of evil-doers, as the sgent of the society, he soon had the satisfaction of seeing a nice little surplus in the treasury as the result of fines imposed. In the Blair cruelty to children case alone, a fine of $400 was collected and covered into the treasury of the society.

Besing this money in the treasury, alone, a fine of $400 was collected and covered into the treasury of the society,

Seeing this money in the treasury, however, is all the satisfaction Agent Hutchins derived from it. Being in easy financial circumstances, he did not press the society for money until domestic trouble forced him to resign. His resignation was accepted with the broad's regret that he was compelled to take such a course, Accompanying the notice of the acceptance of his resignation was a very warm testimonial of the society's appreciation of his services, but the matter of pay for those services was left open. When he finally demanded a settlement he was offered such a trivial amount that he could not, with honor to himself, accept it.

In the absence of a written contract or a definite verbal one, Mr. Hutchins insisted upon being paid what he considered his services to be reasonably worth. He asked for $100 a month for six months' work, but offered to compromise for less. The directors, however, would not consent to a compromise on his terms, hence the suit.

The funds attached will about satisfy Mr. Hutchins's claim, should the court give him judgment for the full amount sued for. It is not so much a question of the society's ability to pay as of the justness of his claim. The directors do not think that under the circumstances they should be required to pay their ex-agent so hight a salary.

ADS ARE MISSILES.

Have you ever seen little boys salling boats on a small pond? There is no wind, the boats are half way over, and lie there idly. There seems but little chance that the voyage will be completed. Here is where the ingenuity of the boy's mind comes in. He throws a stone into the water near the little sailer. The stone makes a little wave, the bark rises on the wave and floats nearer to the shore. Another and another stone is thrown. Gradually the distance between the boat and the bank lessens, and finally the boat is ashore. The boy did not ask which of the stones he threw influenced most the progress of his boat. He knows that all of them together accomplished the desired result. Good ads are the effective missiles that bring the bark of business to your store. Each ad makes a little wave, each wave helps to effect the desired result.—(Shoe and Leather Journal.

WORK FOR THE HOBOS.

Elysian Park Will Be the Scene o

The question of providing employmen for the hobos that are garnered in by the police, came before the Board of Public Works yesterday, at the regular neeting of that body.

At the Council session of last Mon day, a communication was received from the Chamber of Commerce asking that steps be taken to build a stockade in Elysian Park, where the chain-gang might be quartered, while they worked on the improvement of the park. This ommunication was referred to the Board of Public Works.

The scheme outlined in the communication was favored by the board, and a recommendation was prepared in the matter that the Superintendent of Buildings confer with the Chief of Police and the Board of Park Commissioners, in the drawing up of plans and specificamatter that the Superintendent of Buildings confer with the Chief of Police and the Board of Park Commissioners, in the drawing up of plans and specifications for such a stockade and quarters as might be favored by these officials. Fe-We Wood of the Los Angeles Railway Company appeared before the board, at the request of Chairman Munson, to explain why the improvement in the brakes of the company's cars has not been made before this time. Mr. Wood explained the delay to the satisfaction of the board, saying that every effort possible is being made to facilitate the progress of the matter. Other matters referred to the board were acted upon as follows:

DELINQUENT OIL MEN.

List of Those Who Have not Paid the License.

At 5 o'clock yesterday, the time al owed the owners of oil wells, to square their accounts with the City Clerk, ex pired. At that hour, the tax imposed by the Council on oil wells became de-linquent: The ligense on each well is $1.50 a quarter. Deputy Best estimates the number of wells in the city at 325 the number of wells in the city at 225. Of these, fifty-five are either "dead" or being drilled, thus leaving 270 that are llable to taxation under the amendment to the license ordinance recently adopted by the Council. Of this number all but ninety-eight have paid.

The penalty imposed upon delinquents who neglect or refuse to comply with the provisions of the ordinance may be understood from the first section of the license ordinance as here given:

understood from the first section of the license ordinance as here given:
"It shall be unlawful for any per-son or persons whether as principal or principals, agent or agents, clerk of clerks, employee of employees, either officers of corporations to carry on any trade, calling, profession or occupation, in this ordinance specified, without first having procured a license from said city so to do, and each and every day or fractional part of a day that said trade, calling, profession, or occupation, in this ordinance specified is conducted or carried on without such license, shall constitute a violation of this ordinance and such person or persons, agent or agents, clerk of clerks, employee or employees, who shall for themselves or any other person or persons, or body and such person or persons, agent or agents, clerk of clerks, employee or employees, who shall for themselves or any other person or persons, or body corporate, or otherwise, conduct or carry on any trade, calling, profession, or occupation aforesaid, without first having procured, a license, shall for each violation of this ordinance be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction by any court having jurisdiction thereof, shall be fined therefor in a sum not exceeding $200, or be jurisdiction thereof, shall be fined therefor in a sum not exceeding $200, or be imprisoned for a term not exceeding ninety days, or shall suffer both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court, and the amount of such license shall be deemed a debt to said city of Los Angeles, and such persons, agents, clerks, employees and bodies corporate, or efther of them, shall be liable to an action in the name of the city of Los Angeles in any court of competent jurisdiction for the amount of the license of such trade, calling, profession or occupation as he shall or they may be engaged in, with costs of

RAILWAY VIADUCT.

Formal Report of the Special Com mittee in the Matter.

As printed in The Times of yesterday the special committee appointed by the Council to confer with the street-railway company regarding the maintenance of the viaduct across the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks on Alamada. meda and San Fernando streets has been at work on the matter, and yes terday filed with the City Clerk the following report to the Council on the subject:

"We have examined the present struc "We have examined the present structure and are convinced that it should be maintained. We are informed by the maragement of the street railway that the necessary changes in the viaduct to enable the electric cars to be operated over it are now under consideration. In view of the great danger to life if this viaduct should betaken down, we recommend that the Los Angeles Railway Company be required to maintain the same and make such changes in the incline and exten-

"Recommend that petition from M. Parker et al., complaining of a nulsance in the vicinity of Savannah and Michigan avenues, be referred to the City Engineer to report what measures are necessary to abate the nulsance.

"You are hereby notified to appear before the Council of the city of Los Angeles, or its authorized committee, on Saturday, December 21, 1895, at 2 p.m., at room 14, in the City Hall of the said city of Los Angeles, on the east side of Broadway, between Second and Third streets, then and there to testify in an investigation being held under and by the authority of the Council of the said city of Los Angeles; and a failure to so attend will be punished in a manner

Says He Signed the Report.

Councilman Kingery denies the repor that he opposed the recommendation of the Board of Public Works in the maxter of having a survey made on the route of the proposed boulevard be-tween Westlake and Elysian parks. He declares that he concurred in the recommendation, which now bears his signature.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

THE COURTS.

herry Indictment Set Aside b Judge Smith. important decision

An important decision by Judge Smith, and one that affects the method of payment of court stenographers all over the State, was that which yester-day set aside the six indictments against Frank W. Cherry, the Police against Frank W. Cherry, the Folice Court stenographer accused by the grand jury of perjury in having swort to faisfiled demands for payment.
Messrs. Davis and Rush, counsel for Cherry, are jubliant over their victory.
Their tireless efforts on behalf of their their tireless enorts on behalf of their client brought up this point upon which the indictment was quashed, that, as the statute did not require stenograph-ers to swear to their claims, the charge

Under Judge Smith's decision the Judge who certifies the claim, is made responsible for its correctness, and henceforth, there will probably be much more care taken in the examination of

Following is Judge Smith's opinion in full:

The defendant was indicted by the grand jury for the crime of jerjury. The alleged perjury consisted in falsely swearing to an account, containing his charges for services as shorthand reporter in Police Justice Morrison's court, and the contention of defendant under his demurrer is that the facts set out in the indictment do not constitute a public offense, in this: That no oath was required by law as a pre-requisite to the ellowance and payment of his claim, and if not such a matter or proceding in which an oath was required, then the oath was superfluous, and no material, and therefore not perjury. I think it too plain to call for discussion, that unless the oath was required by law there can be no perjury. Was the oath required by law in order to the auditing and payment of defendant's account?

The law in reference to the allowance.

the auditing and payment of defend-ant's account?

The law in reference to the allowance and payment of these claims of repor-ters in justices' and police magistrates' courts is found in sec. 369, subdivision 6, of Penal Code, and is as follows:

"The reporter's compensation shall be fixed by the magistrate before whom the examination is had, and shall not exceed that now allowed reporters in the examination is had, and shall not exceed that now allowed reporters in the Superior Courts of this State, and shall be paid out of the treasury of the county or city and county in which the examination is had on the certificate and order of the said magistrate."

It is plainly apparent from the foregoing, that the claim of a reporter is such courts is paid on the certificat and order of the magistrate. The claim cript belongs to the records of his court; indeed are the official statements of what trenspired in his court upon a preliminary hearing; and the magistrate under the law must take judicial notice of the same.

An oath is no more required of a shorthand reporter in a matter of this kind, than would an oath be required of the clerk of the court, that he had properly made up the records of the court. But whatever the reason, the language of the section is plain, and by its terms no oath is required. See: Ex parte Reis 64 Cal., 233; Aid Society vs. Reis, 71 Cal., 637; McAllister vs. Hamlin, 83 Cal., 637; McAllister vs. Hamlin, 83 Cal., 637; McAllister vs. Hamlin, 83 Cal., 361; ex parte Wilber, 91 Cal., 370.

It follows, then, that the oath in question wes extrajudicial—not necessary to the allowance of the claim, and therefore not material, and hence not perjury. The demurrer, for these reasons, is sustained.

AN ORIENTAL BEAUTY. Sued for a Portrait Painted on Speculation.

Justice Young's court was the scen of another amusing contest yesterday in which a little artist figured as the plaintiff and a rather handsome woman

w. L: Judson, the artist, who has figured as one of the teachers in the McLeod Art School, tried painting Mrs. A. M. Rawson on speculation, or rather as an advertisement, but although he charge of the building in which the art school was situated, and Judson fell into spasms of artistic rapture every time he saw her. He was not at all backward about expressing his admiration, but, according to her account, must have ladded on flattery with a hod and patted it down with a trowel. Seeing her standing in the doorway one day, Judson intimated that iffe would be no longer worth living unless he could paint her portrait.

"You are such a perfect brunette," he said, rapturously, "Such a dream of Oriental beauty. What fire! What color! If I could only catch it my fortune would be made."

In response to all this piled-up artis-

In response to all this piled-up artistic frenzy, and a more practical suggestion that her portrait would be a good advertisement for him, Mrs. Raw.

good advertisement for him, Mrs. Rawson blushingly consented to pose as "Carnation." Judson took a fancy to paint two pictures of her at the same time, as "there were so few women with beauty that could stand the sunlight," and, at the completion of the two, he was fired with an ambition to paint her again as Madonna, if only a picturesque infant could be accumulated as a studio property.

Mrs. Rawson, however, drew the line at the picturesque infant, much to Judson's disappointment, and refused to sit for him again. The picture called "Carnation" was intended for competition in a San Francisco newspaper's beauty prize, but it was never sent. It remained in the art school for some time, and then was taken into Mrs. Rawson's rooms for safe keeping, but, after the bill came in, it was sent away, and the new town it it was sent away.

after the bill came in, it was sent and and she has not seen it since.

After a long wrangle, and the taking of a good deal of testimony, Justice Young said that both parties were no doubt honest in their convictions, but, as the plaintiff had utterly falled to show any agreement or contract concerning the pictures, he would order show any agreement or contract cerning the pictures, he would o judgment for the defendant to amount of the costs.

orange-growers in the more exposed sections of Southern California, especially around Riverside, have been feeling very anxious during the post week, owing to the cold weather that has prevailed. Preparations were made at Riverside to protect the fruit from frost, but up to this writing no damage has been reported. The lowest tempera ture, as far as can be ascertained, was of the more delicate plants in exposed places. Shipments of oranges have been going forward rapidly, several up to date, which beats the record for this time of year. There is considerable complaint that some of the oranges shipped are not yet sufficiently ripe. Such fruit is likely to do injury to the reputation of California oranges in the

by private enterprise may be taken to express not only the need and value of such an institution, but a lack on the part of the State government. The principle of government instruction in agriculture has been recognized by Congress in the establishment of a Department of Agriculture, and to a certain extent by the State of California in the duties with which it has charged the State University in advising and instructing the people in some agricultural matters—in protecting orchards and vineyards against infection, promoting forestry and in other ways. At this institution the principles of agriculture constitute a special course of study. But while the university has numerous colleges, such as those of law, medicine, dentistry, pharmacy and the the part of the State government. The

In other words, while it is equipping young men and women for the learned professions it s not training them in the specific industries which make California a State unique in the sisterhood, and upon the mastering of which its greatness depends far more than upon the achievements of its citizens in the learned professions.

Vaule of Windbrenks.

A Riverside paper notices that dur-ing the recent spell of hot north winds in that section, some of the orange or-chards which were not protected by windbreaks were damaged to the ex tent of from 10 to 20 per cent. through the oranges dropping. The injury was done in streaks, regardless of whether the orchards were irrigated or not, osme portions of the orchard showing the effects while the rest were not at all affected. It appears, however, that wherever the trees were protected by windbreaks they were not injured.

This is another evidence of the value

This is another evidence of the valu of planting rows of eucalyptus trees around orchards. Some growers ob-ject to the space which they take up, but it is better to sacrifice a row of trees than to lose a large portion of the crop from time to time. Then again the trees are worth something for the fuel which they will yield on being topped off every few years.

Remarkable profits are occasionally reported from olive trees in the various parts of the State. One of the largest parts of the State. One of the largest recently published is the following from the Oroville Register:

"The profits realized this season by E. K. Brightman from eight olive trees in the City Gardens are astounding and can hardly be realized. So far he has picked from the eight trees, which are now over twenty years old, 1405 pounds, or 281 gallons, five pounds of green berries to the gallon. When pickled he receives for them 75 cents a gallon. He has gone over the trees the third time in getting the ripe fruit and he thinks there are more on the trees than the quantity he has picked. His estimate, after careful calculation, is that the trees will yield this season 400 pounds each. This means 80 gallons of pickled fruit, or $60 per tree." It will be noticed that in this case the grower pickled the olives himself, which, of course, entails a considerable amount of work. There is a constantly increasing demand for pickled olives, and a man who makes a study of put-ting up a good quality of fruit does not nany trees in order to give him

> Pruning Deciduous Fruit Orchards (California Fruit Grower:) November

(California Fruit Grower:) November to March may be named as the time for pruning deciduous fruit orchards in California. As a rule, pruning should never be done after the buds are swollen or starting. If it is not possible to finish before the buds start, it is best to wait until the leaves have made some growth.

The thorough cutting back of young orchard trees is the corner-stone of successful fruit culture in California. Without cutting back the growth the second, third and fourth years from one-half to two-thirds, it is difficult to make the best orchard tree in the rich soil and long season of growth in this State. It is true that different species of fruits require different methods of pruning, but all should be cut back more or less.

Let every fruit-grower who can gain access to it read in Downing's great.

ods of pruning, but all should be cut back more or less.

Let every fruit-grower who can gain access to it read in Downing's great work "The Fruits and Fruit Trees of America" what he says on pruning and training the peach before going into his orchard to prune. His advice therein is valuable and may be followed with advantage, except that in this climate everywhere we should make the height from the ground to the lowermost branches 12 to 19 inches. The art of pruning fruit trees in California as practiced by many of the best orchardists may be described as follows: After planting one-year-old trees from bud of graft, they cut them back to within eighteen to twenty-four inches of the ground. They then try to force them to make three to five Beginners should not only study the systems of pruning as given by Downing. Wickson and others, but should carefully study the practices of the most successful fruit-growers in the neighborhood. No cast-iron rule can be given in California, for much depends upon local conditions which are so exceedingly varied that successful practice in one place may not serve in another comparatively near by.

States on the North propose to proceed forthwith with their invasion of the Eastern fruit markets, and try lances with California producers in an important commercial conquest. The northern coast scribes and their railway friends seem to take the ground that a northern advance will mean a retreat for the California growers, for, they say, in tender phrase, that the advantages of the North "will drive the California product out of the market." We do not suppose that the Northern fruit-growers, or at least the more intelligent of them, are anticipating any such disaster to California. They cannot be so wise in their own concelt as that. Most of them know what advantages California has in experience, in natural adaptations, etc., and the most they can expect is to share the benefits of the business so far as Northern limitations allow. But it is idle to argue that point now.

We look upon the matter from an altogether different point of view from that taken by Northern reporters and dispatch makers. It seems to us that all that they can do at the north in the way of securing more favorable railway rates will redound also to our advantage rather than to our detriment. The following is a portion of a dispatch from Tacoma, April 17:

"The reduced fruit rates from Eastern Washington to Montana, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Chicago have not been decided upon, but will be this week. The object is to give Washington fruit an advantage over the California product in those markets, citrus fruits, of course, excepted. Washington's fruit crop promises to be five times larger than ever before. Eastern wholesalers write that it will be an important factor in this year's supply, because of the injury done the Eastern crop by the late frosts."

tor in this year's supply, because of the injury done the Eastern crop by the late frosts."

We are quite sure that managers of railways from California to Eastern markets will not sit idly by and allow Northern lines to carry fruit so low as to interfere with their own traffic. There is too much revenue to the roads from the fruit business to lose. We believe that every point the Northern growers can get from transportation companies will be met by the Southern lines, and this will be to the advantage of our growers and allow a vastly wider distribution of fruit to be made at the East. Of course, the Eastern receivers tell our Northern friends that they want their fruit. They always like consignments to sell, and the more California does in selling her own fruit, the farther Eastern merchants will seek consignments from new regions. We do not see any menace to our interest in that. The immensity of the Eastern fruit demand and the requirements which hedge about the production of good shipping fruit give an unclouded outlook for prosperity to those who can produce the best fruit at the lowest price. California has no reason to be appalled by that issue.

But there is another line to the progress of the Northern growers, and that is to supply their own coast cities with the produce of the interior regions. Hitherto California has sent much fruit north by sea, and this trade it is hoped to rule out by low local railway rates. For example, the rates promised within the State of Washington are as follows:

(H. E. Bullock in California Fruit Grower:) Last spring I promised you a report of my fruit-testing shipments, which I am now prepared to furnish. Each test was made in a differently constructed box intended for Eastern shipments. I succeeded in making thirty-odd shipping tests during the past season, and the outcome so far has demonstrated the following conditions:

1. Nature supplies all kinds of fruit with an abundance of acid and water, and much of this water is by nature forced out of the fruit again in the process of maturing.

2. Constant evaporation must be maintained while the fruit is in transit, or the pocket of the shipper must pay the penalty.

3. To accomplish this, refrigeration, ventilation and absorption are the most common means resorted to.

4. Wood fiber and fresh air are found the only safe absorbents by which evaporation may be maintained after the fruit has been boxed for market.

5. The composition of this moisture is such that if allowed to accumulate and settle or remain on the fruit if forms a coazing that seals up the pores and stons evaporation.

6. When evaporation is suspended, except by refrigeration, mould or decay is the result.

7. To insure complete evaporationand to best preserve the fruit, each piece should come in contact with the wood of the box or crate which, in connection with the fresh air, will properly absorb the moisture; otherwise the absorption must take place through the surrounding fruit, which is difficult as well as hazardous.

8. Loss in weight by evaporation averages one pound for every ten days on each twenty-pound box after it is packed for market.

9. If evaporation is not properly controlled while in transit, the shrinkage will cause about as much loss in money value as decay; consequently; the box should be so constructed that just sufficient evaporation will take place to sustain life and prevent mould.

10. Fruit will not remain in sound condition in a box after the pores of the wood are filled with moisture; hence well seasoned lumber is absolutely then the fruit is tolerably safe.

13. Absorption, evaporation, refrigeration and the action of air on both box and fruit are so little understood that a mint of money is lost every year by fraitshippers.

14. Evaporation under favorable circumstances can be so accelerated while fruit is in transit that the shrinkage will do as much harm as decay; hence it is very important that fruit boxes should equalize if possible, or control this most important element.

15. The amount of money paid for refrigeration might be largely curtailed if better judgment were exercised in boxing and packing the fruit in single layers.

16. A very small portion of our fruit layers.

16. A very small portion of our fruit needs refrigeration while in transit; in fact none except strawberries and therries.

17. I find that fruit-shippers lose money from neglect to assort and properly than they pay for freight and commissions.

18. For lack of business tact and comentration, our present sales in Eastern lities are in constant conflict with each other; distribution is complex, and revasily increase instead of decline. For it is not only citrus fruits which Callfornia has the call upon by virtue of her southerly latitude and protecting environment. California will have weeks of profitable trade before the Northern fruit ripens, and there are other very desirable orchard fruits than citrus which the Northern people will always have to leave out of their calculations. It is such considerations as these which show that Northern unticlipations of excluding California fruits from Northern Coast markets are, and will always be, unwarranted; and, repeat, we believe it is the overzealous reporter, the ambitious railway promoter and the designing tradesman who afflict such views upon the public. The intelligent fruit-grower has broader knowledge and sounder sense.

centration our present sales in Eastern cities are in constant conflict with each other; distribution is complex, and repeated handling from car miles, and repeated handling from car miles, and repeated handling from car miles are so few that to mention them is a waste of effort.

THE MARKETING IS AT FAULT. All circumstances and conditions of the proper sale with tissue paper is necessary for nearly all kinds of fruit as it saves much of the bloom and gloss, and would be still better could the wrapper be put on and the fruit assorted as taken from the trees, as so much handling is fatal.

20. For foreign shipment none but the largest fruit should be selected, and hat carefully picked, packed and boxed in single layers. Where wrappers are used sizes may vary considerably without attracting the attention of the buyers, as the face appearance is not so conspicuous.

21. My foreign correspondents claim that a great advantage would result from the sales of California fruit if the number of pieces and the net weight were conspicuously noted on the end of each box, as buyers could thus more readily judge the amount they could pay in place of guessing, which is always done at the expense of the seller.

22. The fresh fruit weighed thirty-two and a haif tons. The dried fruit weighed 25,530 pounds, making the ratio of 2.63 between the fresh and dried fruit. The fruit was sold at an inopportune time and rather below the general market rate, the fruit averaging 50-60 and the price 4 cents per pound. This makes the return $1025, or $410 per acre. This shows what a well-cared-for prune orchard is eapable of doing in a poor year. The soil was quite inclined to a black adobe character.

tainable. The reduction of 331-3 per cent in the average price from any former year would place all but the best in size and quality of our product below the cost of production.

While in this may be seen the fate of those who have unwisely selected soil and locality for growing prunes, so also arises the hope for him who knowingly or by chance is secure from frost, storm, hardpan, clay, deep gravel, adobe and washed or weak soil. When the market price of prunes shall have reached 3 cents for what is known as the "four sizes" by the trade, the producer who, under average conditions, can raise no larger than 90-109s, even though of the best quality, may as well cease his efforts. It will not pay. Land that under ordinary conditions of warmth and moisture will not produce a large crop of 70-80s average is not and will not be profitable in the production of prunes at reduced prices, or in general competition attendant on a surplus, however small. Nothing but the "pinch" of conditions as they force themselves into control will teach the lesson we here try to impart.

WHENCE COMES THE TROUBLE?

WHENCE COMES THE TROUBLE? Coast in all its varied species, and with that degree of perfection that will chalthe possible degrees of sugar, acid, texture and size, and may be brought into favorable competition in any country in questions of quality. Where, then, does any cloud appear? The answer must be from overproduction or under-consumption, or bad methods in marketing.

der-consumption, or bad methods in marketing.

It is not believed by your speaker that we do now or that we shall grow more prunes with our present acreage than our country alone should consume. Their delicious and healthful qualities should so commend them that a three-fold increase of consumption should quickly come, and surely present prices cannot be in the way.

UNWISE EXTENSION. Taking into consideration the foreign product, it is believed our efforts at production have been too earnest and rapid. It has not been so much a matter of growth as "boom." We find in the business not the usual and customary tillers of the soll, but in haste, almost mad, the lawyer, the doctor. tomary tillers of the soil, but in haste, almost mad, the lawyer, the dootor, the minister, the judge, the banker, merchant, miner, capitalist, manufacturer, professor, teacher, olerk, mechanic, male, female and "mixed," and syndicates, including all kinds, as well as corporations, have planted tree and vine and await their fortune. All these classes are more or less speculative, and believe themselves in nearly every case wiser and sharper than their fellows. The result is and will be a larger and more rapid increase of production than provision for distribution and consumption, and the result misfortune which will have no remedy except in the severe and sore trials of all engaged in the industry. When these have been severe and harsh and sufficiently continued, then will come a unity of effort, purpose and plan, so strong as to lift us above our groveling and mean self, and prosperity will immediately follow. Are these statements too strong or untrue?

THE LESSONS OF THIS YEAR.

The conditions of the present seas argely prove what is coming. We did not have a large crop. Taken as a whole, it was not what the average should be from the present bearing should be from the present bearing trees. The foreign crop is from 80,000,000 to 100,000,000 pounds short of 1894. No exportations were expected or could be relied on. They had not enough for home demand. We have been exporting from our own product to England, Germany, Holiand and even France. We have this year the best crop in size of fruit and quality ever raised by us. It gives universal satisfaction. We are delivering our prunes in New York and all other American markets, freight paid, for less money than the French ask and receive at home. Our crop is less than our annual consumption; and, notwithstanding we are exporting, prices never ruled as low as in 1895. What causes this? The answer must be bad management or bad methods in selling. For this the producer is in part to blame, and those whom he employs and supports in the transaction of business are responsible for the remaining part. The grower trusts anybody but himself, while the market manipulator or seller trusts nobody, and serves nobody but himself, first, and, secondly, if at all, his customer a thousand miles or more away. The exceptions to this rule are so few that to mention them is a waste of effort.

Twelve common hens can be bought for $3, and they should lay, and would lay 1500 eggs in twelve months, if half cared for. Fifteen hundred eggs at 1 cent each, which is a very modest estimate, or average, would be $15 for their eggs in twelve months, or five times what the hens would cost.

We know from experience that hens can be kept in comparatively close get to eat is bought and fed to them, at a cost of about 4 cents each per month, or say 50 cents a year. On this basis it would take $6 worth of feed to keep the twelve hens in laying condi-tion for a year, leaving a net balance of $9 to the credit of their keeper, or 300 per cent. net profit on the $3 invest-ment.

So much for eggs. Now, let a man buy a rooster and two hens, and just let the hens lay and sit. Suppose he would begin now, in July. The hens would surely lay and hatch one brood of chickens each during the nutumn—say twenty chickens from the two hens. They would again certainly lay and and hatch each three broods more, beginning with next spring, by the time They would again certainly lay and and hatch each three broods more, beginning with next spring, by the time the year would be up, making forty chickens per hen, or eighty chickens from the two, less one-fourth loss from sickness or accident, leaving sixty from sickness or accident, leaving sixty young chickens as the increase in twelve months, worth 25 cents each or $15, which less 50 per cent. of the cost of raising, leaves a net profit of $7.50 from 75 cents invested in a trio of fowls in July—this from common chickens and eggs at common prices.

Is there anything else on the farm or in the village that can be made to yield as large a per cent. of interest for the same amount invested?

The manufacture of fancy cheese in this country is rapidly increasing, and probably there is no part of dairying that pays better than this work. The processes of making these fancy kinds of cheese are supposed to be secret, but they are open secrets, and any one can find out who wishes.

Cheese Making in Switzerland.

Cheese Making in Switserland.

(San Francisco Chronicle:) There is a wide difference between cheese manufactured in Switserland and that manufactured in California. They may hear the same names, may be produced in the same way, and by the same people, and with identical machinery, which is generally the case, but for all that the imported and domestic Gruyere and Neuchatel are not the same article. The reasons for these variations were explained yesterday by a young cheesemaker just arrived from Switserland, along with other matters pertaining to the industry in his native land, interesting allke to the California dairyman and the San Francisco gourmet.

In Switzerland the making of cheese is not left to hazard and to the whim or ignorance of the peasant. Not only dairy business, as they are the more profitable.

"What causes the holes in the Gruyere cheese? They are produced during the process of fermentation, while the cheese is in the press. These holes snould not be larger than the tip of a child's little finger, what we call 'yeux de pendrix,' partridges' eyes. When larger, which is often the case, they are evidence of a want of care and oversight, while the cheese is fermenting, or, perhaps, I had better say, drying. The larger herds vary from one hundred, to in rare instances, one thousand cows, but the rule is from two and three to ten and upward to twenty. Four immense cheeses are made daily and three to ten and upward to twenty. Four immense cheeses are made daily from the milk of 150 cows. There are some large proprietors and a few companies engaged in cheese-making, but as a rule co-operation is in order. The owners of a small number of cows join together. They carry their milk in palls or tubs to the cheese factories, where it is weighed for quantity and quality, and they are given credit for the amount delivered, and paid in proportion later in the season. Butter is also made in the same way. Nothing enters into the making of Swiss cheese at home except the milk, cream and sait. I have not yet had the opportunity to look around the California dairies, but from what I have seen tunity to look around the California dairies, but from what I have seen of their product, I am inclined to believe that foreign substances enter into the manufacture of the domestic article called Swiss cheese. The yellow color is too pronounced. Another thing, while the California cheese is sweet when first cut, in a few days it turns dark, and where the knife has come in contact with it runs a sort of whey dark, and where the knife has come in contact with it runs a sort of whey and soon has a bitter taste.

"At home when the milk is received at the factory it is placed in vats, after having been filtered, and it is cooked or heated for an hour and a half. It is wrapped in cloth and then put under a screw press for from twelve to twenty-four hours, or until all the water and whey have been thoroughly extracted. This is an operation requiring great care, and on its thoroughness degreat care, and on its thorough we also export it largely, the amount last year aggregating in value $11,000,000. Italy is our best customer at present, and Germany is likewise a large buyer. Formerly France purchased quantities of Swiss cheese, but the high duties which have prevailed of late years have almost shut it out of that market. A new commercial treaty has, however, now been made between the two countries, and I look for the exportation of cheese from Switzerland to France to again assume large proportions.

France to again assume large proportions.

"To sum up, the excellence of Swiss cheese is, in the first place, due to the Alpine pasturage, which cannot be duplicated; then to the care, cleanliness, intelligence and time expended in its manufacture, and lastly to the purity of its ingredients. These last features are possible everywhere, and while nowhere else than in Switzerland can the peculiar odor and taste of the Gruyere cheese, so dear to the gourmet, be produced, there is no reason why its essential properties should not have come to California to engage in cheese-mak-

CHURCH OF CHRIST.

THE NEW BUILDING ERECTED ON NORTH BROADWAY.

rangement of the Auditorium Ladies' Pariors and Refresh-ment Room-Free Reading Room for the Young Men.

I The new church erected by B. F. Coulter, Sr., on North Broadway op posite the Courthouse is an excellent il-listration of how practice may be made to combine with precept. The building, while being dedicated to worship, according to the rites of the Christian church, has been constructed with a view to make all who take part in the services as comfortable as possible. "This," said Mr. Coulter, "has been my idea. We have made no attempt at architectural design, but have endea-vored to so plan the structure as to make it not only a place for worship on Sundays, but also a pleasant place for classes to meet during week-days and for ladies to gather together in the and for ladies to gather together in the discussion of plans for the aid of those needing assistance, while at the same time the young men have been thought of in providing them with a comfortable reading room and free library. The church will be lighted so that all may read with ease, the seats will be comfortable and the floor has been carpeted so that persons coming in or going out during services will not make noise enough to disturb those who reman. Then we have ladies' parjors upstairs attached to which is a refreshment room provided with the necessary fittings to spread a lunch, and sundry other innovations, all of which have a purpose, so that instead of having a fittings to spread a lunch, and sundry other innovations, all of which have a purpose, so that instead of having a church which shall be of use only one day in seven we expect to see it serve a good and useful purpose not only one day but every day in the seven."

An examination of the building shows that he has, aided by his architects, carried out his views in the way he has expressed them. The main floor is divided into three departments, the central and largest is that which will be devoted to the regular church services. The floor in the church room is what is known as a "bowling" floor, sloping from the three sides to the pulpit. It is heavily carpeted, and the seats, which were made for the church at Grand Rapids, Mich., are of quarter-sawed oak in natural colors. They are arranged in circular form so that the occupants can look toward the pupit without turning around. Midway on the south side is the pulpit. It is a raised platform, and, as in all churches of the Christian denomination, is moveable. Immediately in the rear of it, forming a handsome background, are heavy oak sliding doors, which, when thrown open, reveal the baptistry. The arrangements of this latter are very perfect and the heating arrangements of it are such as to reduce to a minimum the possibility of candidates taking cold. re such as to reduce to a minimum possibility of candidates taking

Twenty-seven stained glass windows, of subdued rich coloring, give light to the auditorium of the church. These windows were made in Chicago after special design by J. W. Frey of Los Angeles and cost $1000. The electric lights consist of six clusters, five of fitteen burners and the center one of thirty. In addition to these there are eleven bracket clusters, insuring at night time a perfect light. Besides the main entrance on Broadway, there are four side entrances with cement approaches to each, so that members of the congregation and visitors can proceed to their seats in the church without having to pass from one end of it to the other, tumbling over other people on their way. Twenty-seven stained glass windows

At the east end of the auditorium is the lecture room for young people, and on the west end the Sunday-school room. While both of these are separate from the auditorium they are so arranged as that in the event of an overflow meeting, they can be made to form parts of it and make one large room for church services. Both of these end rooms are carpeted the same as the auditorium and are draped with heavy portieres. These portieres were decided on in preference to sliding or folding doors and were manufactured in New York specially for this church. They are of unusually heavy texture and when closed will prevent any sound of voice being heard between the rooms, making the latter, in this respect, as separated from each other as they would be if walled up.

A man carrying the corpse of a large goose came to the office of Health Officer Steddom yesterday and inquired of the clerk if the doctor was in. Upon receiving an answer in the negative the man with the goose seemed disheartened, but after being questioned with regard to his errand unbosomed himself and related the following tale: "My mame," said he, "is Louis Werthelm. I live at No. 225 West Fifteenth street. Three days ago I bought this goose of a man on Main street. It looked well. I thought it was healthy, but," and here the narrator paused to wipe a tear from his eye, "dot goose began to pine avay. It sickened and yesterday it died. I want Mr. Steddom to make an examination of him and see if he was sick when I bought him. If he was so, I want my money back, which I paid for dot goose. You see?"

The inspectors present in the office ilstened to this weird story without so much as the semblance of a smile, but when the man departed, after insisting on leaving his goose as a subject for Dr. Steddom's inspection, hilarity reigned in the office. The goose, at present reposes in a secluded corner of the apartment awaiting its examination by the Health Officer.

Stevens, who were indicted on a charge of using the United States mails for the using the United States mails for the transmission of matter concerning a lottery scheme as published in The Times yesterday, were admitted to bail in the sum of $1000 each. Fulkerson explains the second suit by saying that as the postoffice would not deliver any mail to the "United Indemnity Company"—of which he is president—he had his business letters addressed to the "Interstate Mutual Investment Company," improvised for that express purpose. As soon as the government discovered that the last-named concern was only another name for the interdicted company an order was issued against it and its officers were again arrested. Fulkerson is quite sanguine that he will yet win in his fight with the government, but in the mean time he cannot get possession of the money letters that come for him.

The East Side Cycling Club is ar ranging to have a clubhouse built for it on the site of its present home. West Chestnut street, near Pasadena avenue. It will be a frame building, and will cost about $1000. The floor plan is being figured out by the East Side's mem bers. There will be a roomy parlor in front, and a good-sized assembly room, which will connect with the parlor by double doors. The nusic-room will be part of this apartment. Training querters and a kitchen will occupy the rear. A bowling alley and baths also to be parts of the proposed club-house for the East Side Cycling Club, as well as a large billiard-room.

The cycle entertainment and fair at the Pavilion will open on the day fol lowing Christmas, and last until the night of the 28th. The Roamers will open it, and the East Sides close it, while the middle evening will be in charge of the Citrus Wheelmen.

was started about three months ago by certain factional differences existing in San Francisco. At that time the powerful combination of societies known as the Six Companies, was disbanded. The See Yup Company endeavored to secure a monopoly of trade, and, to that end, attempted to compel purchasers to deal only with See Yup stores.

In order to extend this monopoly a "sympathetic" boycott was ordered in Los Angeles, and extreme measures were resorted to to keep trade from the Sam Yup stores. "Spotters" were employed and in some instances Chinamen who had purchased goods at Sam Yup stores were mobbed and their goods taken away from them as they came from those stores.

Ah Mow, one of the See Yup merchants, declined to enter into the monopoly. He contended that because the two factions were fighting in San Francisco that was no reason for having a "sympathetic" fight in this city. Since then, it is alleged, they have threatened him in various ways. One threat is said to have been made by See Yup representatives to the effect that if he did not yield to the wishes of the powerful combine they would have him deported to China. The only satisfaction they got was some extravagant Chinese profanity from Ah Mow, to the effect that they could go to a certain very hot place before he would be buildozed.

Chief Clerk J. M. Johnson of the rail-way mail service, received a telegram yesterday stating that all the registered pouches containing registered mail from Los Angeles and vicinity were de-stroyed in the accident which occurred on the Santa Fe at Shoemaker, N. M., Novamber 25. November 25.

on the Santa Fe at Shoemaker, N. M., November 25.

This was the accident in which two meil clerks were killed. The train was the overland which left this city November 23, at 8 p.m. The dispatch further says that it is not known how much ordinary mail was destroyed.

All registered mail from Southern California, it will be understood, is sent first to this city and from here it is sent in a registered pouch to the central point nearest its destination. For instance, a registered letter from Pomona to New Haven. Ct., would be sent from Pomona to Los Angeles, put in the registered pouch for New York, and, after its arrival at New York, and, after its arrival at New York, would be sent to New Haven. By this system there is necessarily a considerable delay, but the handling of a multiplicity of registered pouches is avoided.

Each registered pouch has on it a lock with a numbering device, or meter, showing how many times it has been locked and unlocked. When such a pouch is made up the postmaster sending it records the number then shown on the device. If the pouch be unlocked before reaching its destination the number shown on the device will be one greater, and the fact can be detected.

THROOP CONCERT.

Creditable Showing by Musicians of that Institution.

The Throop Orchestra, composed of students in Throop Polytechnic Insti-tute, gave a concert Thursday evening in Assembly Hall. A large audience was present and showed its hearty ap-preciation of the selections rendered by enthusiastic and frequent encores.

The solo work was acceptably done, the cornet solo of Marion Waite and the violin solo of Arthur Dodworth meeting with especial favor. While the unity of the professional in the concert was lacking, there was plenty of confident energy displayed in the mode of attack, and a disposition to go through the most difficult places with easy as-dition could result only from patient painstaking care combined with true are shared by all from the leader, Harold Simpson, to the smallest part represented. The orchestra numbers ten

DISCUSSION OF FRENCH HISTORY BY PASADENA WOMEN.

A Paper by Mrs. Charles Keyes the Earlier Days of France and the Exciting Events Leading to the Revolution.

On account of the rain there was but but the meeting was a very pleasant one and was heartly enjoyed by those who braved the weather to be present. who braved the weather to be present. After the reading of the minutes by the secretary, Miss Blackfan, she made a report of the progress of the work of the committee in charge of the petition which is to be presented to the Council calling for legislation for the better protection of the community against infection from tuberculosis. The report showed that many of the woman's societies in Pasadena have been approached upon the subject and that the prospect for their co-operation in this important matter is good.

The regular programme was opened the prospect for their co-operation in this important matter is good.

The regular programme was opened by a brief talk upon the life and character of Gabriel Honore Riquetti, Count de Mirabeau, by Lou V. Chapin, in which the salient facts in the life of that great statesman were touched upon, and the delineation of his influence upon his time attempted. This was followed by an interesting paper upon "The French Constitution," by Mrs. Charles Keyes, the president of the club. Mrs. Keyes showed that she had made an exhaustive study of the subject, and fully understood the genesis of the French constitution, and the events that led to its formation.

Beginning with the times of Charles the Bald, she related the story of how the free cities were given suffrage, and how later, the peasants were theoretically members of the States General. She related how that body was suppressed during the minority of Charles IX, and how in the five hundred years preceding the formation of the constitution the States General had been convoked but thirteen times, an average of once in forty years.

The characteristic legislation afforded by the constitution and the manner in which it was formed were shown, and once in forty years.

The characteristic legislation afforded by the constitution and the manner in which it was formed were shown, and then the paper passed to the consideration of the work of the legislative assembly, the legislative work performed by the body of men who were led by Robespierre, Danton, Murat and those who are usually held responsible for the bloody days of the terror. The work of Lafayette in proclaiming the rights of man, and of the Assembly of France in embodying the spirit of that declaration was dwelt upon, and a clear explanation of the achievements of the first two years of the revolution as tested by the constitution, was made.

After each of the papers there was an interesting discussion of the subjects treated, in which all of the ladies present participated in their usual wideawake and intelligent manner. The year of French history, supplemented as it is by topics of five interest, dealing with the affairs of today, is proving one of exceptional growth and intellectual benefit for the Shakespeare Club, and the present year is regarded as the most successful in its history.

benefit for the Shakespeare Club, and the present year is regarded as the most successful in its history. It was decided by the club to send a letter of condolence to Dr. Shults and family. Mrs. Shults was the second member of the club, and was much be-loved by all its members.

BUSINESS.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OFFICE OF THE TIMES. Los Angeles, Dec. 20, 1895. STOCKS AND BONDS. The sales railway bonds during eleven months of this year amounted to $324,163,597, at an this year amounted to $324,163,597, at an average price of 70.6, as against, as stated by Clapp & Co., in their New York weekly letter, $226,622,691, at an average price of 72.8 for the same period in 1894. In railway stocks the sales on the New York Stock Exchange for eleven months in 1895 are given at 21 per cent. more than during the same time in 1894, and 20.6 more in value. The average price per share was $59.80, against $63.70 in 1894.

RAILWAY EARNINGS. In its last RAILWAY EARNINGS. In its last issue, Bradstreet's publishes some fig-ures showing that the railway earnings for November were surprisingly good. The increase over the corresponding month of 1894 is about 6.3 per cent.

AMERICAN PAYMENTS. Referring to the shipments of gold from the United States to Europe the London Statist says: "As we have led our readers to expect for a considerable time past, the gold shipments from New York are proceeding upon a large scale, and we fear that they will continue for a considerable time. For it is to be recollected that the United States has to make very large payments at the end of December and the beginning of January for dividends, interest and profits. The exports are small; the imports are on a great scale; there is profits. The exports are small; the imports are on a great scale; there is practically no investment by Europeans in the United States. Consequently it is reasonable to expect that a considerable amount of gold will have to be sent, and that it will continue coming for some months. That means, in the first place, that rates will decline here, and probably will be very low in January and early in February. It means, in the second place, further borrowing by the United States."

ARGENTINE WOOL. Reports re-ceived from Buenos Ayres are that the wool clip of Argentina for this season, wool clip of Argentina for this season, and which was completed last month, is an exceptionally good one in both quantity and quality. The Buenos Ayres Standard, speaking of it, says: "The shearing of one hundred million of sheep is now in full blast, and wools are coming in fast. Prices are higher than last year, and the quality of the fleeces is better; the wool is lighter, cleaner, less greasy. Such has been the increase in the flocks, and so favorable has been the focks, and so favorable has been the soft, wintry season, that about half a million bales will be probably exported this season, say 500,000,000 pounds. In other words, the country has had a phenomenal wool clip this time. Farmers, and they are proverbial grumblers, agree that they never had a better season."

Besides wool, advices show that Argentina is also undergoing the enjoyiment of having a good crop of linseed and wheat. The same paper says: "On the heels of the first large consignments of wool we shall have a large linseed crop from the province of Santa Fe, where the gathering will begin in November. Large contracts for shipment in January have already been signed. Thus in February and March we shall see a great glut of produce at all our ports, as everything promises well—wool, linseed and wheat."

Judging by these reports, it would seem as though business was rapidly recovering in the Argentine Republic and holders of its bonds may yet recover dollar for dollar. and which was completed last month, is ACETYLENE GAS RIGHTS. The Equitable Gas Company of New York has, it is stated, purchased acetylene rights for that portion of New York city it now serves with gas for $500,000.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS. RICE VERSUS WHEAT. Figures show that nearly one-half of the entire population of the world subsists largely on rice. Nearly all of this half is in China, India and other countries contiguous to them. These countries are, commercially speaking, close to California. Yet here in California it is in some years difficult for the farmers in some years difficult for the farmers to get enough for their wheat to pay actual expenses. Twice, three times the quantity of wheat that is at present grown in California could be resised if any reasonable assurance could be held out to the growers that they would get paying prices for their crops. Wheat can be produced in California cheaper than rice can be grown in China, and when it is remembered that fully one-half of the world's population do not use wheat in any form, it would seem a wise business proposition to induce them to do so.

The sione yard will be ready very goon and then Pasadena can turnish healthful and exhilarating exercise to the brakebeam tourists and at the same time will give them a light and nonstimulating diet as a cure for chronic laziness.

mated at 1,468,000,000."

ATLANTA'S TRIBUTE. Speaking of the fine showing California made at the Cotton States Exposition, the Atlanta Journal says:

"The great State of California, blessed with an incomparably salubrious climate, and rich beyond calculation in the possession of a soil as fertile in the production of unrivaled fruit and bowers as Eden of old, contributes to the Cotton States and International Exposition an exhibit which in beauty, variety and excellence, surpasses that of any other section which has entered the arena as a competitor for the coveted distinction of pre-eminence at the great fair. This grand exhibit unheralded by the glamor of elaborate artificial decoration, is arrayed for the public inspection without regard to expenditure, upon a scale of magnificence commensurate with the importance of the occasion, and characteristic of the liberal, patriotic, progressive spirit of an enterprising, enlightened people."

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—In a general way the average wall-street habitues were prepared, after the close of business yes.erday, for a probable depression in the stock market today, on account of the Venezuelan message episode and the renewed heavy outward movement of gold. The actual developments of the day accordingly caused a sensation in financial circles that has not been of the day accordingly caused a sensation in financial circles that has not been decided since the Baring paule; in fact so overshadowed in point of the paule; in fact so overshadowed in point of a panicky market in American securities in London, with declines extending to 5 per cent. British consols also came lower. The successive cables reported great excitement at that center, and wholesale liquidation of international stocks at rapidly receding figures. Before the opening here it was definitely stated by gold-shipping houses that $2,400,000 of the $5,000,000 that was expected to go out tomorrow, would be arranged for today. The combined influence of the developments noted was reflected in a wild opening in local stock and bond markets. Trading was stored to see the stock of the stock Shares and Money. (REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)
CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Wheat was weak and finally broke panicky, selling off before noon 1½c from last night's close, and there was no material reaction. The disastrous panic in stocks set the pace for wheat, for outside of that the news was not much worse than yesterday. Northwestern receipts were the smallest for some time, and while the rain had filled the ground with moisture there was some danger of a cold wave, which could hardly fail to injure it more or less. But the conditions abroad were such as to thoroughly demoralize it. There was a panic in American securities on the London Stock Exchange, where nearly everyching American was being pressed for sale. This was soon reflected in the New York stock market. Gold shipments were worked to the second that had been such as to thoroughly climinated and wheat commenced to follow stocks. Longs made haste to liquidate, so that bfore noon the price had dropped 1½ from the close yesterday. Even those who had a big profit did not seem anxious to take it as the condition seemed to warrant the expectation of getting more. The downward pace was easy and rapid. Some big lines held by private warehouses were thrown. In the market, and commission houses had heavy selling orders. New York yas an agressive seller from the start, and kept it up with vigor. It is said that the Wall-street clique let go almost its entire line of long wheat. May sold early at 58½ to 58%, being quite unsettled, but sold quiterly in 56%, being the last hour, and May sold to 57%, can was heavy, influenced chiefly by the slump in wheat. The market held quiet during the last hour, and May sold to 57%, corn was heavy, influenced chiefly by the slump in wheat. The market held quiet du (REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

London Financial Market.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The Evening Post's London financial cablegram says that there was a severe panic in the Stock Exchange here today. All American securities, shares and bonds alike, are practically unsalable here. The panic today was not based so much on politics or a war scare, as a predicted financial crisis in America. There is to be engaged for shipment from New York tomorrow $5.000,000 more gold making $10,-000,000 but this is not absolutely confirmed. It is, however, only a question of time when the gold will go. The decline in consols was not on investors' selling, but in bear selling. In Americans, on the contrary, the rush of genuine holders to realize was enormous, the shock received by the tone of the President's message and still more by the acceptance by the House of the reports being one of the most serious ever experienced her. Other markets were fast in sympathy with the small business. It is rumored that $5,000 000 for shipment from the shock of the report commend that the confirmed, but the report commend that $5,000 for shipment from the Bissines was flat today out of sympathy and for the reasons cabled yesterday. At Serin the Basics was flat today were weak, but were the steadlest of the European markets.

SAN BERNARINO, Dec. 20.—(Regular Correspondence.) The shooting and killing of two Mexican miners named Gonzales by Henry Randolph, a miner at Hedges, last Monday night, has beet reported here. The account of the trag-edy was brought yesterday by Dr. T. F. Johnson, Coroner of San Diego county, who was compelled to take this roundabout route, passing through three counties to travel from San Diego desert end of that county.

to the desert end of that county.

Hedges is the big camp sixteen miles from Yuma in San Diego county. The shooting was witnessed by probably twenty miners and gamblers, and according to all the evidence the Coroner was able to discover, Randolph was justified in killing the Mexicans, who seem to have made an entirely un-provoked attempt to bring him down with their guns, which, strange to say with their guns, which, strange to say, Randolph escaped without a scratch. Monday evening the miners were gathering in the saloon at the camp, and Randolph was seated in a chair, at some distance from the bar. He was sober, and while seated, another miner, an American, came in slightly under the influence of liquor. He went over to where Randolph was seated, and made himself so offensive that Randolph stood up and struck a light blow, which was little more than a push, and the intoxicated miner went to the floor.

push, and the intoxicated miner went to the floor.

The brothers Gonzales were standing at the bar at the time, and when they saw the trouble between Randolph and the other miner, the elder brother, although in no way concerned or interested, so far as could be learned, drew his revolver and fired full at Randolph. The latter is quick with his gun, and drawing returned the fire. At this the younger Gonzales also began to shoot, and there was a general rush for exits on the part of the crowd in the saloon.

A number of shots were exchanged in the melee, the elder Gonzales being pierced through the heart and fell dead. The younger brother was wounded in the abdomen, and died Tuesday night, and while the bullets from two revolvers whizzed past him, Randolph came out without a mark.

Coroner Johnson subpoenaed all the witnesses to the affray, nearly twenty Coroner Johnson subpoenaed all the witnesses to the affray, nearly twenty being examined. From all that could be learned, the shooting on the rart of Randolph was purely in self-defense, and it could not be ascertained that the Mexicans had any interest in the intoxicated miner, or any grievance against the man who subsequently killed both of them. The elder Gonzales was 29 years of age, and married. The other was unmarried, and but 21 years old.

A gentle rain has begun to fall here at this writing, about the middle of the afternoon, with conditions apparently good for a decent rain—a thing devoutly hoped for by the ranchers in this valley.

Some young lemons on the branches, with new, tender fresh blossoms also, were seen in town today, brought in by Mr. Sparks from the mesa foothill district, northwest of Pomona, showing no evidence whatever of frost. This speaks volumes for this favored belt of country along the northern skirt of the Pomona Valley, insuring its safety as a desirable citrus belt of territory.

The Union Oil Company has on storage in this city 33,000 barrels awaiting-trans portation by way of the new tank steamer George Loomis, which will make her first trip within the next twenty days. The pipe-line of the Pacific Coast Oil Company is jointed up to within one and one-half miles of Sudden's wharf. The 20,000 barrel storage tank, now in course of erection by the same company, is nearly com-pleted. A test will be made of the forty miles of pipe-line from the New-hall district to this city as soon as the tank is finished and the connections made. The tank steamer has a bulk capacity of 6000 barrels and will make regular trips between this city and San Francisco. It is estimated that the steamer will be able to make trimonthly trips which will afford an opportunity for active competition with Los Angeles producers in the northern markets at living rates. On the same date M. T. Dennis delivered to the Victor Oil Company a deed for the above twenty claims. Just what the intentions of the Victor Oil Company are, it is impossible to learn, as the parties in interest are all in Los Angeles, and their agent, in recording the transaction in this county, gave out no information whatever. The Summerland and Carpenteria oil district is beginning to attract some little attention, as the development already made is considerable, the quality of the product fair and being directly on the line of the Southern Pacific, is readily handled.

It has been a question as to the extent of the territory, but the transaction just recorded indicates confidence in its extent as far south as Rincon, this county. The outcome will be watched with considerable interest by oil men. Owing to competition with Los Angeles, oil shipments for the year 1895 show a material falling-off. Exact figures of total output cannot be procured at this a material falling-off. Exact figures of a material falling-off. Exact figures of total output cannot be procured at this date. In 1894 Ventura's production, eccording to figures furnished the State Board of Mineralogy, amounted to 293,-000 barrels, valued at $371,882. The production this year continuel until storage capacity was reached. Many wells are being pumped to maintain their life, with no idea of reaching the full limit of production.

with no idea of reaching the full limit of production.

A visit to the Tar Creek territory of the Union Oil Company reveals the fact that assessment work is being done on a large scale, principally in the line of road work. At Four Forks a new hole is being drilled, and three wells are going down in other territory supposed to be on disputed title ground. Taken as a whole the outlook for the future indicates that confidence has been restored. The actual base for this conditin it is impossible to learn, as the officials of the large companies are severely reticent.

Soap Powder for Kitchen and Laundry purposes is more economical than the best Soap, and no Soap is required with it. Remember these points. BORAXAID, latest and best Soap Powder, costs less, goes further, does work quicker and easier than any other brand made. It contains no rosin, therefore will not shrink your flannels; nor lye, nor caussite soda (which Chinese laundrymen use) to ruin your hands, clothing and temper. BORAXAID is a combination of Borax (which softens water, sets colors, heals the hands, and kills disease germs), ground up with a highgrade Soap, made from sweet vegetable oils, not disease-spreading, rancid animal fats. Do any other Soap Fouder makers publish their combination? BORAXAID takes out all the dirt and leaves all the clothes. Only Soap Powder having Borax for a base. Beware of fraudulent imitations and caustic soda compounds. Take no other brand. Borax is King. Patronize Pacific Coast productions. Trade mark, the "20-mule team," on every package. H-1b., I and 3-lb. cartons. All grocers sell it. It is not peddled. Highest awards Mechanics Fair, San F.co, State Fair, Sacramento, 1895.

A New Ambulance.

The new ambulance, free use of which Messrs. Kregelo & Bresee have offered the city, arrived from the factory at Cincinnati Thursday evening. It is a splendid vehicle, equipped with all the latest appliances for transporting sick and wounded people with comfort and safety. It was used for the first time last evening, for carrying aginjured raliroad man from La Grande depot to the Sister's Hospital. The patient, as well as the two surgeons who rode in the vehicle, expressed great satisfaction with the ride. One of the plate-glass windows of the ambulance was broken in transit. Aside from this it has no blemish. The Council has not yet accepted the owners' offer of free use of the ambulance for city patients.

MET DEATH SUDDENLY.

TRAGIC TAKING OFF OF MR. AND MRS. J. T. LINK.

They Were Struck and Instantly Killed by a Santa Fe Train Near Nadeau Park—Trainmen Exonerated from Blame.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Link met death at the same time, as they often had wished, but in a manner more sudden and shocking than they had hoped for. They were killed instantly by a Santa Fe train yesterday morning. At 75 death is not always an unwelcome visitor, but this old couple were come visitor, but this old couple were hale and hearty, and had the promise of many more years of earthly existence. Though cut off in the twinkling of an eye, as it were, they were prepared for the inevitable, but their tragic death was a terrible shock to their relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Link came to California from the East several years ago, and located at Whittier, where one of their married daughters resides. They have another daughter, Mrs. H. C. Heyer, who lives south of the city, half a mile east of Central avenue, and near the Santa Fe Railroad's line to Rethe Santa Fe Railroad's line to Redondo, not far from Nadeau Park Sta-

Last Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Link drove from Whittier to the Heyers' place, and remained there until yesterday morning, when they started to drive to the city. They left their daughter's home about 8 o'clock, and proceeded by a private road across the railroad track, then turned north along the railroad toward Central avenue. The road they traveled is a private one, and is separated from the railroad by a row of pepper trees. The buggy tracks show that they drove north but a short distance, when a turn was made, and the horse retraced his steps toward Mr. Heyer's house. They were apparently recrossing the Santa Fe track, when a train from Redondo came along and struck the buggy. The vehicle was completely demolished, the horse was dragged several hundred feet and killed

He was terribly shocked when he learned the fate that had befallen the aged couple.

The bodies were placed aboard the train and taken to Central-avenue Station. The Coroner was notified, and a special train was placed at his service to visit the scene of the accident. He proceeded thither at 10 o'clock, and had fine bodies removed to Kregelo & Bressee's undertaking rooms, where he held an inquest in the afternoon.

The verdict was accidental death, exonerating the trainmen from blame. The supposition is that the old couple either turned back to get something they had forsotten or that their horse, frightened by the approaching train, wheeled around and tried to dash back across the track in front of the engine. It being a private road, seldom used, trains do not whistle when they approach the crossing where the accident happened. The whistle had been blown, though, only a short time before as a signal for Central-avenue station. Mr. Link was very deaf in one car, and it may be that he did not hear the train. He could not see it on account of the trees. Whether the accident was caused by a runaway or was due to the old man having turned back will never be known, but in either event, the Jury could not do otherwise than exonerate the trainmen.

sistant Chief Ed Smith of the fire

Assistant Chief Ed Smith of the fire department has completed a list of the fire hydrants in the city. The list is compiled for ready reference. The name of each street having hydrants is shown and the locations of hydrants on that street are given.

It is the intention to prepare a separate map for each company of the fire repartment showing the locations of all the fire-alarm boxes and fire hydrants in the territory within which the comanny is required to respond to alarms. This will give the members of each on, any a chance to study the locatons of boxes and hydrants in their respective districts.

CONFIDENCE WILL WIN. Mechanical Engineer Barbour on

California Investments. "If the vast sums of money which have been put into the development of Southern Africa gold mines had been invested in California mines this State would be producing twice as much gold as Southern Africa."

Thomas J. Barbour, mechanical en-

Thomas J. Barbour, mechanical en-gineer with the Risdon Iron Works of San Francisco, and the man who secured the first franchise for an electric street-car line from Los Angeles to Pas adena, descanted thus on one of California's partly-neglected industries, at the Hollenbeck, yesterday. "Here we have a mother lode of gold the Hollenbeck, yesterday.

"Here we have a mother lode of gold which has been conclusively proven to be 234 miles in length, and yet capital goes to the wild extremity of the Dark Continent for investments in gold mines. It is true that here it is necessary to go down about 1000 feet to reap a big reward for money put into the business, but our California mines are so much more convenient that there can be no comparison drawn with the mines of Africa. Capital is very obtuse sometimes. California mining has always paid, and confidence is all that is needed to make it pay in the future. "Take Los Angeles and Pasadena, now, as examples of what confidence can do when it has the handling of money. Five years ago, after I secured the first franchise for an electric line to Pasadena, the idea was ridiculed, but, even then, it could be seen that the growth of Los Angeles and Pasadena would soon justify the risk. This section of California has simply kept pace with its great possibilities, and men of foresight and keen business judgment have been quick to grasp the opportunities in a section favored with great natural resources and a climate created by nature in her most genial mood."

LEM TONG SING.

Thought to Have Been Formerly in

In Thursday's issue of The Times was published a dispatch from New York dated the day before saying the police of Newark, N. J., had in custody Lem Tong Sing, alias Charley Tong Sing, struck the buggy. The vehicle was completely demolished, the horse was dragged several hundred feet and killed, and Mr. and Mrs. Link were thrown to the side of the track with great violence, receiving injuries which produced instant death. He had his skull crushed and chest mashed in; she had the back of her skull fractured, the left arm broken and left leg almost cut off near the hip.

The train was within thirty feet of the buggy before the engineer saw it, his view being cut off by the pepper trees. The air brakes were applied, and the engine reversed as quickly as possible, but too late to avoid a collision, Mr. Heyer, the old folks' son-in-law, seeing the train stop, hastened from his house to see what was the matter. He was terribly shocked when he learned the fate that had befallen the aged couple.

The bodies were placed aboard, the from Chief Engineer Melville, U.S.N., and from the Judge Advocate-General, large pictures representing Arctic scenes.

The dispatch speaks of the Chinaman in question having produced letters from Chief Engineer Melville, U.S.N., and from the Judge Advocate-General, which purported to show that he was on the steamship Jeanette and later on the Thetis in the Arctic regions. But it is further stated that he is alleged to have killed a man and got his papers and has since passed himself as the original owner of the papers. Putting these reports together it would appear that the Chinaman who kept the restaurant on Upper Main street in this city was Lem Tong Sing, or else he was the man whome he is alleged to have killed and whose papers he is alleged to have produced as his own.

FEELY FEELS BLUE.

He Got Nearly a Year in Jail for

Francis C. Feely, the pickpocket, got a measure of justice yesterday after-noon that will prevent him from steal-ing ladies' purses for nearly a year hence. He pleaded guilty to two sep-rate charges of petty larceny and threw himself on the mercy of the rate charges of petty larceny and threw himself on the mercy of the court, but Justice Owens could not see that he deserved any mercy for going to a house of worship to rob where others went to pray. The Judge sentenced him to 150 days' imprisonment for the first offense and 180 for the second, making a total of 330 days.

Feely said he took a dollar out of Mrs. Langiey's purse because he was hungry and needed the money to keep him from starving. He did not explain why he stole other purses.

Mrs. Louisa Guasti called at police headquarters yesterday and identified as her own one of the purses found in Feely's pocket. Feely will be prosecuted for this theft, also, and will probably have another half year added to his sentence.

Chief Glass received a letter from Capt. Lees, Chief of detectives at San Francisco, yesterday, saying that he had information that Feely had a reputation as an all-around crook and "con" man at Helena, Mont. It is believed sufficient evidence can be dug up to keep Feely in jail several years.

WANTS HIS FEE.

J. Marion Brooks Sues Mrs. Garvey for Professional Services.

for Professional Services.

The suit of J. Marion Brooks against Mary E. Garvey et al. for $250 attorney's fees for defending Mrs. Garvey against the charge of grand larceny, was tried before Justice Morrison yesterday.

Mrs. Garvey was arrested August 28 on the charge of picking a woman's pocket. She retained "Col." Brooks to conduct her defense. Brooks visited her several times at the jail and acted as counsel at her preliminary examination. Before the case came to trial. Brooks was discharged and another firm of attorneys were hired to conduct the defense. Mrs. Garvey was acquitted and is alleged to have paid the victorious attorneys a $250 fee.

Brooks received nothing and accordingly sued for $250 which is the fee he alleges he was to have received for the case.

Mrs. Garvey's son, on the witness case.

Mrs. Garvey's son, on the witness stand testified that the reason Brooks's services were dispensed with before the trial was because he proposed to fight the case by getting it postponed from time to time until the witnesses and ing and would finally fall to appear, thus permitting the case to go by default. The Garveys dld not favor the Fablan policy, but demanded an immediate trial of the case on its merits, hence they let Brooks go and refused to pay him his fee.

Brooks had as witnesses to prove what his services were worth Gen. Pierce and Judge Guthrie, who placed the value of such eminent legal counsel at $250 to $500. T. E. Gibbon, Esq., and Col. Treat thought $50 would be ample pay.

ample pay.

The case was finally submitted and taken ur ler advisement.

Richard Knox appeared in the United States District Court yesterday to show cause why he should not be punished for not responding to a subpecna to appear as a witness in the case of Alford Hacker, charged with cutting government timber near Fresno. He said he fild not have means to pay his transportation, and, on that showing, he was exonerated.
